

ROOSEVELT SAYS ELECTION RESULTS WERE ALL RIGHT

No Threat to Continued Liberalism in Government, He Tells Press Conference Questioner.

BACK IN CAPITAL FROM HYDE PARK

Reports He Guessed New York Returns; About Right on Senate and 20 Seats Off on House.

By RAYMOND F. BRANDT, Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—President Roosevelt cheerfully refused to concede today that Tuesday's election reverses were a threat to liberal government or that his New Deal program would encounter opposition from a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats in the forthcoming Congress.

In his first press conference since the election, the President skillfully parried attempts to elicit extended comment by declining to elaborate his views. When first asked for his views on the returns he merely replied that they were all right.

A reporter then asked: "In view of your radio address from Hyde Park last Friday, do you consider Tuesday's results as a threat to liberal government?"

The President said certainly not. "Doesn't Look for Coalition."

"How about your program for the next Congress?" Will you not have opposition from a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats?" another correspondent asked.

The President replied that the answer was no, if the program was solid right.

The reporter observed that he expected to see such opposition. The President replied that the reporter was too close to the trees—a favorite metaphor of the President, who has frequently said that many of his critics and interpreters are so concerned with details that they cannot see the forest for the trees.

Free-Election Question.

The inevitable question as to his own forecast of the election brought a smile to his face. He said that he had been pretty good in three ways, that his prediction as to New York was about the same as the actual results, that he had missed by only one as to the senate, and that he had underestimated the Republican gains in the House by about 20.

Then, as an afterthought, he observed that he was better than most prognosticators because he had expected a net loss of 65 Democratic seats, and that the loss had been 80 or 81.

He said that he had forgotten the individual states from which he expected Senate losses and therefore could not tell, without looking at his poll, which state had fooled him. He said that he had not made any forecasts as to governorships, except New York, because he did not know enough about them.

In general, he remarked, he had been almost as good as some of the newspaper polls.

He declined to be drawn into a discussion of the Wagner labor re-election act when a reporter asked if it could be interpreted as an endorsement of the law as it stands.

The President said that this was an almost impossible question. He added that the voters of New York, by a majority of about 500,000, had shown that they wanted Wagner back in the Senate because they liked his record there.

Otherwise Noncommittal.

On other questions, the President was non-committal.

When asked to comment on the renewed Nazi persecution of the Jews in Germany, he took a deep breath, as if to reply, hesitated, and then said that it would be better not to say anything. The news, he said, would have to come from the State Department.

Asked if there had been any developments as to the new national defense program, he replied that there were but not for publication. He said that amendments to the Social Security Act were being studied by the various departments, but he did not know what they would be or when they would be announced.

Bund Member Arrested Under Law Against Propaganda Provoking Racial Hatred.

By the Associated Press.

WEST NEW YORK, N. J., Nov. 11.—Ferdinand Hepperle, a print-shop proprietor identified by police as a member of the German-American Bund was under $3000 bail today in what the committing magistrate said he thought was the first invocation of New Jersey's new statute providing a jail sentence or fine for spreading propaganda tending to incite racial or religious hatred.

Detectives said Hepperle, of Guttenberg, near here, was found in possession of stickers bearing pictures caricaturing the Jewish race and slogans reading "Vote Gentile—buy Gentile."

They declared he also had two engravings from which the stickers were printed in his shop here, and carried a Bund membership card. Hepperle said 2000 of the stickers had been ordered by an unidentified customer who provided the engravings. Bail was posted for the defendant and he was released.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Lieut. True Miller of the Coast Guard and a crew of two today flew 200 miles out to sea to transfer and treat a scalded seaman only to find the sea too rough to alight.

Miller radioed that he had circled the United States freighter Vincent and was informed by its master, Capt. Pendleton, that while the scalded second engineer suffered "excruciating pain" the injuries were not serious.

Miller suggested a cutter from Norfolk, Va., the port for which the Vincent was headed, might better effect the transfer.

The freighter called for aid at 1:30 a. m. when it was about 200 miles off Cape Henry, Va.

HOUSTON, Texas, Nov. 11.—A small bomb, scheduled to be used as a signal to halt an Armistice day parade for a moment of prayer, exploded on a street corner here today, injuring six persons.

Five children and a woman were taken to a hospital for treatment of cuts caused by fragments from the bomb.

With the sound of bugles, drums and bands filling the air, thousands of St. Louisans marched over a downtown route this afternoon in the annual Armistice day parade. Their uniforms and banners were of every color of the rainbow. This was the principal public celebration of the holiday.

Joining in the long procession were the nation's military men of 1938, 1918 and 1898. There were about 6000 members of the American Legion, veterans of the World War, most of them attired in the dark blue uniform and overseas cap of their organization.

Four hundred members of the United Spanish War Veterans, whose return to civil life occurred just twice as long as that of the Legionnaires, also marched; for many of them the only uniform note was in their old campaign hats.

Regulars Had Parade.

Heading the parade, in olive drab, were the Sixth Infantry, Regular Army, and the 138th Infantry and 128th Field Artillery, National Guard of Missouri.

None of the handful of Civil War veterans left here was in the procession.

The carefree, marching groups were in sharp contrast to the khaki-clad men who began to return to St. Louis by regiments soon after the first armistice, of 1918. Military precision was not observed, though the old habits survived in the respect shown for the hundreds of flags of the nation.

A few of the marchers were accompanied by their children and the Legion's drum and bugle corps of the sons and daughters of veterans were once again an interesting feature. Wives and sisters of the veterans marched, too, in their auxiliary units.

Paper Showered on Marchers.

Altogether, it was an atmosphere of gaiety, made more realistic by the recent escape of the world from the threat of another general war. From office and loft buildings, to some points showers of torn paper fell across the line of march.

The largest crowds of spectators were along Washington avenue, where the sidewalks were crowded. Starting from Twelfth boulevard promptly at 2:30 o'clock, the parade moved east in Washington, to Broadway, to the Walnut cutoff, to Market street and back to Twelfth, where the marchers turned to pass a reviewing stand at the new Soldiers' Memorial in Memorial Plaza.

This structure, commemorating the World War, was finished since the last Armistice day parade.

Under auspices of the Peace Council of Greater St. Louis, groups met in halls and churches at 11 minutes before 11 o'clock to hear a memorial broadcast in which the speakers were the Rev. Leo J. Steck, director of the Confédération of Christian Doctrine; Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman, and Bishop William Scarlett.

Balloting on Peace.

Luncheon gatherings were held in several hundred homes at which women voted ballots provided by the Peace Council expressing their views on national defense, neutrality, and peace policies. The ballots have been widely distributed through civic, religious, and other organizations, with a request that they be filled out and returned to the Council's headquarters at 915 Olive street.

Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann asked all industry and street traffic to halt for two minutes, beginning at 11 a. m. Street cars and motor buses were stopped for one minute.

Protestant churches held an Armistice day service at noon at Christ Church Cathedral, with the Rev. Dr. Theodore C. Hume of Chicago, vice-president of the Chicago Peace Council and pastor of the New England Congregational Church there as the principal speaker.

A religious mass was celebrated at St. Patrick's Church, Sixth and Biddle streets, by the pastor, the Rev. James A. Johnston.

Dean Schwittalla Speaks.

In a radio talk sponsored by the Reserve Officers' Association, Dean Alphonse M. Schwittalla of St. Louis University School of Medicine undertook to refute the contention that sacrifices of the World War had been made in vain. He said if the world was not yet safe for democracy, it was before the war. In rearmament he saw not so much a menace as the expression of a hope for peace which each nation cherishes.

Fred A. Bottger, commander of the Missouri department of the American Legion, in an Armistice day message, advised an adequate national defense as the only method of assuring the peace of America. Preparedness, he said, was not preparation for war, but a guarantee against war.

"If this nation is armed to protect itself against belligerent nations; if we have military and naval forces on a parity with other ambitious world powers; if we are armed to the teeth, we are not prepared for war, but a guarantee against war."

"DIVISION OF LABOR RUINOUS TO WORKER"

John L. Lewis Accused by Committee of Blocking Further Conferences With A. F. L.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, one of the founders of the CIO, decided today not to affiliate with a permanent CIO organization, which will be formed in Pittsburgh next week. The union is headed by David Dubinsky.

In announcing its decision, the union's Executive Board said that "the setback suffered by the progressive and liberal forces" in last Tuesday's election was "unquestionably due, in part, to the split between the CIO and the American Federation of Labor."

The Executive Board adopted a resolution which said that since the union was opposed to dual unionism, "we therefore decide not to take part in the move to form a permanent competitive national organization."

Remains Independent.

The resolution also said: "Being vitally interested in the reconciliation of the two parts of the labor movement, we therefore decide that until peace is established in the labor movement, or otherwise decided by the regular or special convention of our union, we remain an independent union."

The ILGWU technically remains affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, since it was not expelled from that organization along with the other federation unions which founded the CIO about three years ago.

The board resolution said, however, that although "unaffiliated with either side," its policy in the future would be to support every effort to improve conditions of workers and "to achieve peace in the labor movement."

Dubinsky said the ILGWU would not send observers to the CIO's Pittsburgh convention.

Committee Blamed Lewis.

A committee of the union planned John L. Lewis, CIO chairman, yesterday for blocking a renewal of A. F. L.-CIO unity conferences which ended in a deadlock last December.

Today's resolution said the union regarded the CIO up to this point as an organizing committee which had undertaken to organize mass production workers but remarked that it never believed the CIO should be a dual organization.

"We have held and hold today that there should be room in the American labor movement for both industrial and craft unions to meet every form of legitimate evolution of labor organization in American industry without dualism and with a minimum of early adjustable jurisdictional claims," the board said.

"It was because of this conviction that our union has from the earliest days of its participation in the CIO sought to bring about a reconciliation of the conflicting interests in the labor movement, exploring every possible opening and opportunity for peace."

"Ruinous Division."

The board said further that while it recognized the "historic service" of the CIO in organizing mass production workers whom the A. F. L. had "neglected," it was "no less keenly aware that the perpetuation of the division of labor through the existence of two national competitive labor bodies would prove ruinous to the well being of the worker as well as to the general community."

The resolution was adopted unanimously. Vice-President Charles S. Zimmerman of the union voted for it but qualified his action in the following statement:

"I agree with the content and spirit of the proposed resolution. I am opposed to the formation of a dual movement. But I am in favor of sending delegates to the CIO convention in order to advocate the need for unity and to present our program for unity."

TEACHERS BIDDEN TO SHOW 'NEWER' WORK FOR SURVEY

Assistant Superintendent Orders "Desirable Amount" of Modern Procedure for Visitors.

GERLING DISAVOWS HIS AID'S LETTER

Subordinate Disclaims Any Intent to Make Class Instruction Appear Any Better Than It Is.

A notice to public school principals, issued by Assistant Superintendent of Instruction F. M. Underwood, to see that a "desirable amount" of newer procedures in teaching was in use during the general survey of the system now under way, was disavowed today by his superior, Superintendent Henry J. Gerling.

It was sent out about the middle of October, shortly before the survey began, by Underwood as local representative of the survey staff, or liaison officer for the Board of Education. Underwood said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that it was issued with the approval of Dr. Gerling.

Declaring that he did not know there had been such a communication to the teaching corps, Dr. Gerling explained that he had given Underwood blanket authority to do whatever seemed necessary in connection with the survey work.

Underwood's Letter.

In the letter to principals, Underwood said:

"When the survey staff visits the schools to observe the quality of the teaching, and learning that is going on, among other things they will be concerned with the extent to which the teaching procedures observed represent a modern point of view in education. Formal teaching has a place in our program and it should be well done, but the work of the classroom teacher should not consist of formal teaching only."

"On the accompanying sheet are listed 'newer procedures in teaching,' some of which should be found in any classroom visited. There is nothing new about this to the great majority of teachers; they already are using these newer procedures."

Dubinsky said the ILGWU would not send observers to the CIO's Pittsburgh convention.

HITLER CONSIDERS ISSUING DECREE TO RESTORE GHETTO

Propaganda Minister Goebbels Warns Members of Race Abroad Their Conduct Will React on Co-Religionists in Reich.

FOREIGN JEWS PROTECT LOSSES

Germans Won't Pay for Damages; on Contrary Victims Must Repair Premises at Their Own Expense.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—Secret police arrested an undetermined number of Jews of the upper classes today as well informed Nazis predicted restoration of the ghetto would follow yesterday's violence in Germany.

Jews estimated between 700 and 1000 members of their race had been seized in Berlin since yesterday.

Additional arrests in Munich raised the total there to some 1400. Several thousand more Jews were reported in custody in various parts of the country.

Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels said new restrictions for Jews would be issued shortly and warned that the conduct of Jews outside Germany as well as that of those inside the country would influence Germany's future racial policy.

American Jews Protest.

Three American Jews, whose names were withheld, were among a number of foreign Jews who protested to their consulates against the destruction of their stores in yesterday's demonstrations.

Four Netherlands Jews and an unlisted number of British Jews likewise asked the assistance of their respective consulates.

Speaking for 45 minutes to the foreign press, Goebbels said yesterday's anti-Jewish riots, in which synagogues were burned and dynamited and Jewish shops wrecked, was spontaneous.

"Whenever any unsavory elements even made a move to seize goods there were always reasonable people about to prevent it," Goebbels said. He insisted there was no looting.

Trustworthy eyewitnesses yesterday said they had seen shops looted in the arcade between Friedrichstrasse and Unter den Linden and in other parts of the city.

Goebbels, referring to such accounts, said he did not doubt the good faith of the eyewitnesses, but observed that in law courts it is often established that three different eyewitnesses, all honorable persons, reported the same event differently.

Goebbels argued that the very fact that the demonstrations occurred in different cities and took the same form showed that they were not organized but represented the primitive reactions of the common people.

Expected Uprising.

"When the death of Vom Rath occurred (the murder of Ernst Vom Rath, a secretary of the German Embassy, in Paris by a Polish Jew) everybody with a knowledge of the nation's psychology knew something would happen," Goebbels asserted.

"All (Nazi) party leaders were in Munich. Hence so far as I personally was concerned I could take a hand in matters only by long distance telephone. When I did take a hand all anti-Semitic action ceased."

"Whether you agree with my propaganda or not, the fact is that the entire German people have become National Socialists thereby and that means also anti-Semitic."

"While I would not have done as the people did yesterday, yet I admit that inwardly I stood completely on the side of the people."

Goebbels said there were not sufficient policemen to cope with the situation yesterday.

"We did not have 100,000 police to defraud."

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—For biting amateur song writers by telling them he could market their songs, Darryl C. # REPUBLICANS DID NOT LOSE A HOUSE SEAT IN ELECTION

Gained 81 Places With One Race Still in Doubt — Coalition May Have a Majority.

KEY TO WHITE HOUSE ATTITUDE SOUGHT

What Congress Does Will Depend on Whether Roosevelt Lays Down Gauntlet or Co-operates.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. — Republican forces in Congress came through Tuesday's election without the loss of a seat.

Veteran officials at the Capitol said today, as far as they were able to determine, the record was unique for a major party.

Republicans took eight seats from Democrats in the Senate. In the House they won 72 from Democrats, five from Progressives, and four from Farmer-Laborites. The seat still in doubt is that of Knute Hill (Dem.), of Washington.

Of 25 former Representatives and Senators who tried comeback, 14 succeeded. They were former Senator W. Warren Barbour (Rep.), New Jersey, and the following one-time House members:

William W. Blackney (Rep.), Michigan; Chester C. Bolton (Rep.), Ohio; Colgate W. Darden (Dem.), Virginia; George P. Darrow (Rep.), Pennsylvania; Butler B. Hare (Dem.), South Carolina; William E. Hess (Rep.), Ohio; Noble W. Johnson (Rep.), Indiana; Clarence J. McLeod (Rep.), Michigan; Vito Marcantonio (Rep.), New York; Charles F. Risk (Rep.), Rhode Island; John C. Shafer (Rep.), Wisconsin; Arthur B. Jenks (Rep.), New Hampshire; William A. Pittenger (Rep.), Minnesota.

Court Plan Opponents Win. Eight of nine Democratic Senators up for re-election this year who opposed the Roosevelt court bill have won new six-year terms.

Senator Augustus L. Morgan of Connecticut was the only one to go down to defeat either in the primaries or in Tuesday's election. He won renomination, but lost Tuesday to John A. Danaher, Republican.

Those re-elected are Senators Adams of Colorado, George of Georgia, Van Antwerp of Illinois, Gillette of Iowa, Tydings of Maryland, Clark of Missouri, McCarran of Nevada, and Smith of South Carolina.

Prominent Republicans appeared to be getting ready to serve a virtual ultimatum on President Roosevelt in some such words as these:

"We are to the right, or face two years of stalemate in Congress!" They expressed confidence that, combined with Democrats critical of many Roosevelt policies, they could block the President if he insisted on following a "leftward" course.

Strength in Coalition.

On the other hand, prominent New Dealers were declaring that the election was not a repudiation of President Roosevelt's "liberal policies." Secretary of the Interior Ickes spoke of the possibility of Roosevelt's being drafted for a third term drive in the interests of continuing the New Deal.

A coalition of 49 anti-New Deal Democrats with the Republican membership would give such forces a majority. On some past issues, many more than 49 Democrats have deserted the administration. In the Senate, the Republicans would have to pick up 26 Democratic votes to assume command.

A prominent Congressional Republican said that if the President should insist upon following an unchanged course, he would be beaten badly in Congress. At the same time, should the Republicans seek to undo major New Deal legislation already enacted, the possibility of a Presidential veto and the necessity of mustering a two-thirds majority against Roosevelt in both houses was regarded as hanging over the conservative forces.

Roosevelt's Attitude.

Thus, many thought the result depended upon Roosevelt's own interpretation of what the election meant, and his own decision as to what course he would follow. He could, such opinion said, seek compromise and co-operation, or lay down the gauntlet and battle it out for two years leading up to the 1940 presidential election.

In predicting that the Democratic party might draft Mr. Roosevelt for a third-term effort, Secretary Ickes said he based his view on the confusion of issues in Tuesday's elections.

"Many Republicans," he continued, "outpromised the Democrats on liberal policies. How many Republicans, for instance, favored the Townsend plan? People didn't swing conservative in the election—they were reaching out for economic security and in doing it, they frequently followed false gods. Liberal sentiment is as strong as ever, if not stronger. If President Roosevelt had run for re-election on Tuesday he would have been victorious. I have always seen the possibility that he might be drafted for a third term."

Ickes expressed the opinion that the election did not rest on any clear-cut issue of liberalism against conservatism.

"Despite all the newspapers say,"

POLISH-GERMAN Jews huddled in a stable yard at Zbonszyn, on the Polish-German frontier. They were among thousands of Jews shipped to the border by Germany recently after the Polish authorities announced new passport regulations for citizens living outside the country.

he said, "you can't find any pattern to show repudiation of President Roosevelt's liberal policies. There were too many cross currents involving economic, religious and racial issues. Many candidates asked the electorate what the other fellow had promised and then offered to double it. Had there been a straight issue as drawn clearly in a presidential election between liberal and conservative candidates, I have no doubt of the outcome."

"Smart Thing to Do." The prominent congressional Republican previously referred to said he thought the "smart thing" for President Roosevelt to do would be to "ease over to the right and say 'let's have an era of good feeling for two years. We can't fight it out until 1940, so let's be friendly in the meanwhile.'" He added that he doubted, however, whether that would satisfy the President's advisers.

Asked whether he thought the Republican would meet the President half-way in such a gesture, he replied that the party would continue to oppose policies it considered injurious. But, he cautioned the Republicans who were elected on Tuesday to show some restraint, "saying they had not been 'commissioned to tear the hell out of everything in sight.'"

Comment by Tydings. Senator Tydings, (Dem.), Maryland, who was re-elected easily after overcoming the President's opposition in the primaries, said: "I predict the legislation presented to Congress in the future will be better prepared and more thoroughly considered and debated than it some times has been in the past."

He expressed the opinion the stock market rise and the election indicated that business generally has "renewed confidence in Congress."

"I think the country wants the President's program shaped up, consolidated and reorganized," Tydings added. The people want some of the loopholes plugged up," Senator Connally, (Dem.), Texas, another who has opposed some administration measures, said he believed Republican gains would tend to eliminate much of the friction among Democrats. Senator Brown, (Dem.), Michigan, chairman of the Senate campaign committee, expressed a similar view.

Connally said he hoped that controversy over the reorganization bill, expected to be revived in the next session, could be avoided by a compromise which would give Congress the power to approve or reject any changes in Federal bureaus.

Already proponents of specific legislation were clamoring for the attention of the new legislators, who will meet Jan. 3. The General Welfare Federation of America contended that the election results showed a "definite majority (of Congressmen) favorable to a more sound, adequate, pay-as-you-go pension program, or sympathetic to the objectives of such a program."

"How to Agriculture." Secretary of Agriculture Wallace invited new legislators of all parties to confer with him on the farm program, although he added his belief that the present legislation "furnished the best framework for an enduring agricultural program."

Wallace termed Republican gains "a hard blow to agriculture," and said they might have been greater except for the personal popularity of President Roosevelt.

The outstanding conclusion from the recent election, he said, "is that people do not like business depression. They think that by voting against the party in power when a depression is on, they can do something to cure the depression."

Senator O'Mahoney, (Dem.), Wyoming, expressing surprise at the extent of Republican victories, thought the election had placed the Democratic party in a better position to become the liberal standard bearer in the 1940 presidential campaign.

"The net effect," he said, "is that several outstanding Republican conservatives have been elected. They will control the delegations with the large votes of the next Republican convention and that means the Republicans probably will nominate a conservative."

We can't fight it out until 1940, so let's be friendly in the meanwhile.'" He added that he doubted, however, whether that would satisfy the President's advisers.

men available to put one before every Jewish shop," he asserted. "It is absurd to say that this thing (the demonstration) was organized. I assure you had I organized it, it would have been more successful, more radical and the result would have been quite different."

Goebbels closed with a declaration that Germany's future treatment of Jews "depends both on 'let's have an era of good feeling for two years. We can't fight it out until 1940, so let's be friendly in the meanwhile.'" He added that he doubted, however, whether that would satisfy the President's advisers.

Asked whether he thought the Republican would meet the President half-way in such a gesture, he replied that the party would continue to oppose policies it considered injurious. But, he cautioned the Republicans who were elected on Tuesday to show some restraint, "saying they had not been 'commissioned to tear the hell out of everything in sight.'"

Comment by Tydings. Senator Tydings, (Dem.), Maryland, who was re-elected easily after overcoming the President's opposition in the primaries, said: "I predict the legislation presented to Congress in the future will be better prepared and more thoroughly considered and debated than it some times has been in the past."

He expressed the opinion the stock market rise and the election indicated that business generally has "renewed confidence in Congress."

"I think the country wants the President's program shaped up, consolidated and reorganized," Tydings added. The people want some of the loopholes plugged up," Senator Connally, (Dem.), Texas, another who has opposed some administration measures, said he believed Republican gains would tend to eliminate much of the friction among Democrats. Senator Brown, (Dem.), Michigan, chairman of the Senate campaign committee, expressed a similar view.

Connally said he hoped that controversy over the reorganization bill, expected to be revived in the next session, could be avoided by a compromise which would give Congress the power to approve or reject any changes in Federal bureaus.

Already proponents of specific legislation were clamoring for the attention of the new legislators, who will meet Jan. 3. The General Welfare Federation of America contended that the election results showed a "definite majority (of Congressmen) favorable to a more sound, adequate, pay-as-you-go pension program, or sympathetic to the objectives of such a program."

"How to Agriculture." Secretary of Agriculture Wallace invited new legislators of all parties to confer with him on the farm program, although he added his belief that the present legislation "furnished the best framework for an enduring agricultural program."

Wallace termed Republican gains "a hard blow to agriculture," and said they might have been greater except for the personal popularity of President Roosevelt.

The outstanding conclusion from the recent election, he said, "is that people do not like business depression. They think that by voting against the party in power when a depression is on, they can do something to cure the depression."

Senator O'Mahoney, (Dem.), Wyoming, expressing surprise at the extent of Republican victories, thought the election had placed the Democratic party in a better position to become the liberal standard bearer in the 1940 presidential campaign.

"The net effect," he said, "is that several outstanding Republican conservatives have been elected. They will control the delegations with the large votes of the next Republican convention and that means the Republicans probably will nominate a conservative."

KIN OF FLORADORA GIRL FIGHT OVER HER $500,000 ESTATE

14 Relatives Contend She Left Later Will Than One Giving Most of Wealth to Niece.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 11. —The $500,000 estate left by Mrs. Matilda A. Bryan of Atlantic City, one of the original Floradora Set of the '90s, is the prize in a court fight which 14 relatives are arrayed against another one who got most of the money.

The 14 relatives of the former Title Foreman told Vice-Chancellor William F. Booy yesterday that a little black bag she always carried contained a final will which would have given each of them a share in the estate. This was contradicted by Mrs. Helen Boyle of Baltimore, a niece who got most of the estate.

The will benefiting Mrs. Boyle was drafted in 1934. The other relatives argued that a later will, drafted in 1937 by Vernon Cook, a Baltimore lawyer, left only $100 a month to Mrs. Boyle and equal amounts to each of them. The purported 1937 will could not be found but Cook produced what he said was a copy of it from his files.

Assassin Weeps When He Learns Deed Caused Mob Outbreak.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 11. — Herschel Grynszpan, 17-year-old Polish Jew, who assassinated Ernst vom Rath, secretary of the German Embassy, examined yesterday by alienists, was reported to have wept when he learned his act caused new mob vengeance against Jews in Germany.

He said he shot vom Rath at the Embassy to protest against anti-Semitism in Germany.

Vom Rath's body lay in state at the Embassy and thousands of Germans, diplomats and others called to pay their respects.

There were private services around the coffin and Ambassador Count Johannes von Welzbeck read a eulogy before the Embassy staff.

The Embassy announced public funeral services would be held tomorrow in the German Protestant Church of Paris with representatives of the French Government and the Paris diplomatic corps in attendance.

After the services a motor cortege will escort the coffin to the north station, where the body will be placed in a special railroad car and transported to Dusseldorf, Germany.

World Jewish Congress Says Nazis Provoked Assassination.

GENEVA, Nov. 11. — The executive committee of the World Jewish Congress called the world's attention yesterday to "new persecution of Jews in Germany" and said the assassination of a German diplomat in Paris by a Jew was a poor excuse for the Nazi campaign.

"The crime was not the result of a plot of international Jewry, but of outrageous provocation by Nazis themselves," the statement said.

"The real culprit is the stupid and criminal persecution in Germany, where all Jews are condemned without investigation by those who never cease to preach the priority of might over right, of violence and hate."

Time Bomb Explodes in French Cafe Where Zionists Meet.

NANCY, France, Nov. 11. — A time bomb exploded last night in a cafe assembly hall where Zionists were scheduled to meet, but the proprietor prevented any casualties.

The infernal machine, addressed to a leader of the Jewish organization, was delivered to the proprietor with a request that it be left in the hall where the Zionists were to meet an hour later.

The cafe man became suspicious and directed the Zionists to another room. He called police, but before they arrived the bomb exploded.

King George Lays Wreath On Memorial to War Dead

Leads British Observance of Armistice Day at Cenotaph—Accelerated Arms Plants Join in Two-Minute Silence.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—King George VI led the nation in Armistice day services at the foot of the Cenotaph in Whitehall today.

Trenches in parks nearby and along his route to the Cenotaph, hastily dug in the last days of September, were reminders of the war that did not start—evaded by the Munich agreement to let Germany have its way in Czechoslovakia.

Giant rearmament plants, with the rest of industry, observed the two-minute memorial of silence at 11 a. m.—then rushed on to prepare British defenses against the day when war danger may arise again.

King George, accompanied by Queen Elizabeth, went to Whitehall shortly before 11 to place a wreath at the foot of the Soldiers' Memorial, where all night long flowers and wreaths had been sent.

The Queen, Queen Mother Mary

and the Duchess of Kent watched from an upper balcony of Whitehall's home office. Soldiers formed a square about the Cenotaph, with men of the navy, air force, army and ex-service men marching in the memorial procession.

Police and soldiers were grouped about the King, alert against any repetition of the disturbance last year when a man broke the two-minute silence by crying "all this is hypocrisy—you are deliberately preparing for war."

The man was declared insane, but pacifist commentators at the time wrote "he talked sanely enough."

King George wore an Admiral's uniform as, at the head of his Ministers and leaders of his defense forces, he saluted the empire's million-war dead.

No untoward incident marred the event. After the monarch, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and representatives of the dominions and the armed services had placed wreaths at the Cenotaph, Big Ben tolled the hour, and two minutes of silence followed.

At a conference of 43 presidents of CIO affiliates, Lewis selected one of his closest allies, Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy of Pennsylvania, to head the Constitutional Committee. Kennedy is an international officer of the CIO's United Mine Workers of America.

The new constitution, along with political and legislative policies of the CIO will be placed before delegates at CIO's first convention, opening Monday.

To head the Committee on Resolutions, which will chart the future course of the Committee for Industrial Organization, Lewis selected Van A. Bittner, regional director of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee in Chicago and one of the leaders of the "little steel" strike in 1937.

Lewis did not comment on the decision of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union not to affiliate with the proposed permanent CIO, which probably will take a name such as the Congress or Council of Industrial Unions.

He was also silent on the ILGWU executive board's charge that he was blocking labor peace.

JOPLIN, Mo., Nov. 11.—A charge of creating a riot, filed last spring against Al Friedman, 21 years old, St. Louis, in connection with a sit-down strike at WPA headquarters, was dismissed in Circuit Court yesterday.

A charge of burglary and larceny is still pending against Friedman, the State alleging he entered a private office at WPA headquarters and removed a typewriter while strikers were in charge of the building. He is at liberty under bond awaiting trial in Circuit Court at Carthage.

ROOSEVELT AT TOMB OF UNKNOWN SOLDIER

Takes Wreath to Arlington, Where Legion, Also Pays Homage at Monument.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—President Roosevelt paid homage today to the Unknown Soldier who rests in Arlington Cemetery.

He motored from the White House to the tomb symbolic of America's war dead, and, with crowds looking on, presented a wreath of white chrysanthemums at the marble sarcophagus.

The President stood at attention while his naval aid, Capt. Daniel J. Callaghan, stepped forward with the wreath. Muffled drums rolled three times, and an army bugler sounded "Taps." The notes sounded out over Arlington's graves and across the Potomac to the Lincoln Memorial, which echoed them back.

Directly after the President's departure, guards of the Marine Corps, Navy and Army silently saluted at the tomb. The American Legion, with representatives from the 48 states and the District of Columbia, moved into position before the tomb where the National Commander, Stephen F. Chatwick of Seattle, Wash., laid a wreath before that of the President's. State delegations followed with individual wreaths.

Silence governed the ceremony to mark the silence 20 years ago at 11 o'clock in the morning, which succeeded the roar of battle.

In Washington that day, President Woodrow Wilson said to the Congress, "The war thus comes to an end."

Throughout the nation, millions observed today the twentieth anniversary of the war's end. For the first time it was a national holiday, so created at the last session of Congress.

MRS. ROOSEVELT MAKES PEACE-PEA TO STUDENTS

Asks Them, at Albany Teachers' College, to Take Active Part in Movement.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 11. — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt made an Armistice day plea today to students of the New York State Teachers' College to assume active responsibility in the world peace movement.

"We are letting ourselves be ridden by fears in this country," she said. "Fears of Communism, fears of Fascism. There is only one thing to fear in a democracy—that the people won't carry their own share of responsibility."

"When the people don't see that they elect representatives who will do their share, when they do not take active responsibility in their own government, then there is danger that democracy will not meet their needs and that people will turn to something else."

PUZZLERS IN MAIL SCHOOL 'PRE-TEST' GIVEN BEGINNERS

Four-Page Folder Said 'We Assume You Know Nothing Until Your Work
Proves Differently.'

GUARANTEE OF JOB WITH GOVERNMENT

This Was Representation Made to Another Prospect by Public Service Institute Employee.

"We assume you know nothing until your work proves differently," said the National Community Service Institute for the study of the public service institute, by which they hoped to obtain civil service jobs, read on the cover of the four-page "pre-test" folder which they filled out as they began.

The folder, offered in evidence yesterday by the Government in its case against Clarence De Montre-ville, head of the correspondence school, and 11 associates charged with using the mails to further a scheme to defraud, was perused with interest by members of the jury in United States District Judge George H. Moore's court.

"Which weighs the most, a ton of feathers or a ton of lead?"

Assistant District Attorney David
M. Robinson snuffed as he read the question from the "intelligence test" section of the folder.

"Small Travel Problem."

"A snail is crawling up a pole 10 feet high. Every day he crawls up three feet and every night he slips back two feet. How long will it be before he reaches the top?"

As Robinson added a snort to the snuff, C. E. Clifton of defense counsel challenged him.

"You may think this is a simple test, but I suggest that you take it and see how you fare," the lawyer said with indignation.

Robinson, deigning no reply, continued to scan the list of questions.

"A bottle and a cork cost $1.10 and the bottle costs $1 more than the cork. How much did each cost?"

"This sentence is incorrectly written. Rewrite it correctly.
There are three kinds of 2's in the English language."

"Fred said that at their breakfast table today there were two lithers, two sons, one grandfather and one grandson. How many persons did this make? Tom said there were six, but Fred said there were only three. If one of them was Fred's grandfather, how many were there?"

"An Impossible Situation."

The Assistant District Attorney

"There is an impossible situation about the following: A man set his wife in a chair. He dropped asleep and dreamed he was about to be hanged and was having a rope adjusted around his neck.
His wife, wishing to arouse him, tapped him on the back of the neck and he died of heart failure.
Answer: The impossibility is—"

"In a civil service examination speed is rated 25 per cent. Sometimes on this sheet there may be a misprinted word. To find it and correct it a credit is given of 1 per cent. If you don't find it, leave blank. If you do find it, write the word. No credit will be lost for not finding it."

Other Sections in Folder.

Robinson tossed aside the folder, which contained in addition to the "puzzle problems," sections devoted to questions on general information and personal data which, it was explained, was for the purpose of giving "the vocational advisor a sound basis for his judgment."

A list of vocations, from which the student might make a selection, included: Accounting, mining,
navigation, mechanical engineering, telegraph engineering, heating, ventilation, refrigeration and radio.

The Assistant District Attorney returned to his task of examining witnesses to support the Government contention that salesmen for the school left with prospective students the impression that it had some connection with the Government, thus leading them to believe they had a better chance of obtaining jobs after completing the school's preparatory course.

Farmer Tells of His Experience.

"That is the seal of the United States," Walter J. Kaiser, a farmer of Robertson, St. Louis County, testified he was told by a salesman who displayed one of the school's printed forms.

When Kaiser expressed doubt that a correspondence course could supply the deficiency in his formal education which had ended with the seventh grade, the salesman, T. Kammer, told an amazing story, the witness said. A St. Charles County farmer who could neither read nor write, Kaiser quoted Kammer as saying, had taken the Public Service Institute course and was working for the Government.

Kaiser recalled that he had asked for the name of the man and that Kammer was unable to remember it. Nevertheless, Kaiser signed an application for the course of instruction and in installments paid $30 before he discontinued his studies.

Baker "Guaranteed" a Job.

Paul H. Harting, 8316 College avenue, Jennings, a baker, paid a total of $30, he told the jury, after Salesman A. J. Friedman had told him repeatedly that he would guarantee a job as a railway mail clerk. The first payment of $1 was made at his home. Harting said, after Friedman had taken him to the privacy of a porch when Harting's wife frankly expressed doubt that such assurance could be given.

"If you get a Government job, it's easy work and lots of pay," Steven Furies, 22-year-old meat cutter of 4824A Ashland avenue, testified he was told by W. J. Donohue, another salesman who has pleaded no contest.

Donohue suggested that a job as a meat inspector would be desirable and that it would be easy for him to obtain such employment with the Government, Furies said. He was told his money would be refunded if he failed to get a job. Furies added, quoting Donohue as saying that the school had some connection with the Government. Furies dropped the course after paying $20.

The trial was continued to Monday when the parade of former students of the school, referred to as "victims" in the indictment, will be resumed, Robinson said. He explained that although 20 persons pleaded no contest, he intended to link each of them, as well as the 12 who stood trial, with the acts complained of by the Government.

THREE WITH SAME LAST NAME SPOIL CONSTABLE ELECTION

Printer Lists Wrong One on Ballot and Candidate Beaten in Primary Gets All the Votes.

By the Associated Press.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 11.—Too many Mangums spoiled Mangum township's election for Constable Tuesday.

Walter Mangum, V. B. Mangum and Isaac Mangum, candidates for nomination, finished in that order in the primary, but none had a majority. Then V. B. Mangum won in a runoff. But there was a printer's mixup and Isaac's name got on the ballots, so everybody voted for Isaac.

Attorney-General McMullan ruled that votes cast for a man whose name got on the ballot by mistake could not be counted. There were no write-in votes for V. B. Mangum.

Mangum Township has not decided what to do next.

MAN FOUND MURDERED ON NEW ORLEANS WHARF

Card Pinned to Victim's Belt Says, "He Knew Too Much; Too Bad."

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 11.—The body of a well-dressed, unidentified man about 30 years old with the head battered was found on the riverfront today. Pinned to his belt, printed on a plain card, were the words: "He Knew Too Much; Too Bad."

Oscar Henry, banana carrier, found the body on the Thalia street wharf, the head hanging over the water of the Mississippi River.

Miss Shirley Bobb Jones of Wichita, Kan., told the New Orleans States by telephone that she thought the man was Bud Lord of San Diego, Cal., who she said was fleeing from a man threatening his life. Miss Jones' name was found on a card in the man's pocket.

With Its Refund of Federal Inheritance Levy Missouri Will Receive Total of $1,176,000.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 11.—A check for $876,921 was received by State Treasurer R. W. Winn yesterday from the executors of the estate of John T. Davis, St. Louis capitalist, in payment of inheritance taxes.

When the State receives its refund of Federal taxes on the estate, it will have collected an inheritance tax of about $1,176,000, which will be one of the largest payments of inheritance taxes by a Missouri estate.

Davis, who died in July, 1937, left a gross estate appraised at $1,747,154. Its valuation for tax purposes, excluding a part of the estate not subject to tax, was $6,821,000.

The direct payment of $876,921 to the State is subject to later adjustments, but no substantial changes are expected to be made. Francis E. Williams, who appraised the estate for the St. Louis Probate Court, estimated in a report filed last month that the direct State tax would be $899,406, and the Federal tax $4,284,064.

Davis left his estate in trust for his widow, providing that she was to receive from it an annual income of $48,000. On her death the estate is to go to the children of Davis' two brothers, Samuel C. Davis, and Dwight F. Davis, former Secretary of War.

SCHOOL BOARD IS WARNED FUNDS ARE RUNNING LOW

Treasurer Declares Activities Will Have to Be Curtailed Unless More Money Is Raised.

A warning that, unless additional income is obtained by the Board of Education, school activities will have to be curtailed is contained in the annual report of Secretary-Treasurer Philip J. Hickey, which has been delivered to the board.

When the current fiscal year is ended, next June 30, Hickey said, the board's balance of working capital, or surplus, will be an "irreducible minimum." The budget contemplates a balance at that time of $129,968. Cash in about that sum is needed annually to pay expenses between the end of the fiscal year and the receipt of taxes late in the calendar year. Any shrinkage of income or additional demands for expenditures of funds in the remainder of the fiscal year will reduce the surplus.

Expenditures in the last fiscal year were $1,662,593 and receipts $1,436,246. It was the second successive year in which an excess of income over expenditures was drawn from the surplus and the eighth time in the last 12 years in which this occurred. The general survey of the school system, now under way, is expected to make recommendations bearing on the board's financial situation.

BERT BOAZ JR. PLEADS GUILTY OF FORGERY AND IS PAROLED

Charge Based on Issuance of Check for $111.18; Father Gave Him "Dressing Down."

Bert Boaz Jr., 4954 Lindell boulevard, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of forgery in the fourth degree, in connection with issuance of a check for $111.18, which was rejected by the bank. Circuit Judge William B. Flynn paroled him once, requiring him to report to the probation officer monthly for the next six months. The charge was reduced from one of uttering a bogus check.

The check was given to the General Tire Co. in payment for some tires. A representative of the company told the Court the money had been paid to Wednesday. Judge Flynn asked the defendant what his father, secretary-treasurer of the Boaz-Kiel Construction Co., thought of the case. Boaz, who is 24 years old, replied that his father told him to plead guilty and "give him a good dressing down."

BOY WATCHES $13,000 MAIL ROBBERY AT BELVIDERE, ILL.

Suspicious of Man He Saw on Train, Follows and Sees Him Flee With Pouch.

By the Associated Press.

BELVIDERE, Ill., Nov. 11.—Postal inspectors and police are hunting for two men who escaped yesterday after stealing a mail sack containing $13,000 in currency.

Jerry Hendrickson, 17 years old, told the authorities he had seen a short, stocky man climb from the engine tender of a Freepoint-bound Northwestern train when it stopped here.

Hendrickson watched as the man scrutinized the mail sacks being tossed from the train. Included was a locked leather pouch containing $13,000 from the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago for the Second National Bank of Belvidere. Noticing the stranger's interest, Hendrickson ran to the postoffice two blocks away. When he arrived, Delbert Daniels, driver, had parked the mail truck carrying the pouches at the loading platform and had gone into the postoffice for a hand-truck.

Hendrickson saw the stranger jump on the truck, take the leather pouch, run down the street half a block and get into a car driven by a companion. The car drove toward Chicago.

'Bathhouse John' Coughlin, Chicago Ward Boss, Dies

JOHN J. COUGHLIN.

Alderman for 46 Years Succumbs to Pneumonia at 78—Once Rubber in Turkish Bath—Represented Loop District.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Bathhouse John Coughlin, picturesque politician of the old school who for nearly half a century was Alderman of Chicago's First Ward, died of pneumonia today in an oxygen tent at Mercy Hospital. He was 78 years old.

During his 46 years in the City Council, ended with his retirement two years ago, Coughlin was its arbiter of sartorial elegance. His was the assignment of officially opening the straw hat season each spring. His attire was somewhat on the gaudy side with bright waistcoats spanning his ample paunch, but when the council was in session he was known as one of its best parliamentarians and was the most dignified of Aldermen.

He was born in the district he represented—the two square miles of skyscrapers and slums formed by the elevated lines which girded Chicago's loop. At the age of 11 he faced the necessity of earning his own living.

How He Got Nickname.

One of his early jobs was that of a rubber in a Turkish bathhouse, the first in the Middle West. From that occupation, he got his nickname. He opened his own all-night establishment in 1890, and not long after that opened the famous Silver Dollar saloon. The prosperity of these establishments, and the alliance he formed about that time with Michael (Hinky Dink) Kenna, enabled him to get a grip on the First Ward Democratic vote which he never relinquished.

Until 1920, when the ward's representation in the council was reduced to one, Bathhouse John and Hinky Dink Kenna were its Aldermen, year after year. Before each election their henchmen patrolled its streets with tattered banners proclaiming the only slogan they ever used: "Live and Let Live."

Whether Republicans or Democrats ruled the council the Coughlin-Kenna combination maintained its hold on the First Ward voters. Its leaders survived woman suffrage, prohibition, and recurrent reform movements to upset their rule.

Kept Machine Intact.

"We keep our machine intact through hard work," Coughlin once explained. "We're never in doubt about any vote in our district. Our inspectors comb the ward, from house to house, checking up in their black books how every vote declares itself. We check and re-check before election."

Coughlin long ago gave up the bathhouse and saloon business for the more genteel occupation of selling fire insurance. In his office, across the street from the City Hall, he kept sacks of bread and potatoes to dole out to needy constituents who remembered him on election days.

"Poet Laureate of Council."

He had a flair for writing and reciting doggerel which gave Chicago newspaper men the opportunity to dub him the "Poet Laureate of the City Council." With poetic license they manufactured verse of their own and attributed it to Bathhouse John. He gladly accepted these compositions as his own, framed them, and hung them in his office.

DRIVER IS KILLED IN CRASH SOUTH OF EAST ST. LOUIS

Charles P. Wright Fatally Injured; 3 Others Hurt in Collision Near State Route 3.

ACCIDENT IS LAID TO THIRD MACHINE

Deputy Sheriff Says Monsanto (Ill.) Man, Also Hurt, Swerved to Avoid Car Making Turn.

Charles P. Wright, a millwright of Maplewood Park, settlement south of East St. Louis, was injured fatally at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon when his automobile collided head-on with another car on Walnut Grove road, just east of State Route 3, south of East St. Louis.

Riding with him was Robert Kronk, also of Maplewood Park, who suffered a back injury. George H. York of Monsanto, Ill., driver of the other car, is in serious condition with internal injuries at St. Mary's Hospital. His son, Melvin, 22 years old, suffered only cuts and bruises.

A deputy sheriff said the accident resulted when the driver of a third automobile turned into Walnut Grove road from a road leading from Curtis Airport. To avoid hitting the machine, he said, York swerved his car toward the side of the road, colliding head-on with Wright's machine.

Wright, 35, 782 Mildred avenue, died at 6:45 o'clock at St. Mary's Hospital of a skull fracture. Kronk, a patient at the same hospital, is 22. York, who is 56, is unemployed. He was driving north and Wright was going south.

Leads Blind Man Across East St. Louis Street, Then Is Hit by Auto. Herbert Robinson of Litchfield, Ill., helped a blind man across an East St. Louis street yesterday, then was struck by a machine as he walked back, suffering a skull injury and fractured left arm.

Robinson led the blind man across St. Clair avenue at Seventh street shortly after 6 o'clock last night. Retracing his steps, he was hit by a machine driven by William Battas, 1129 North Ninth street, East St. Louis.

Battas said Robinson stepped in the path of his car. Battas was charged with reckless driving. Robinson, 40 years old, is a patient at St. Mary's Hospital.

Driver Speeds Away After His Auto Injures Man.

Lucius Graham, a railroad switchman, struck last night by an automobile as he was crossing Broadway at College avenue, is in serious condition at Missouri Pacific Hospital with internal injuries and a fractured right knee. The driver of the automobile did not stop.

Graham's wife and son, Richard, who told police they saw the car in time to run back to the curb, said it was traveling south at a high rate of speed.

William Weber, 8941 Blair avenue, who witnessed the accident, said he followed the car for six blocks before it outdistanced his machine. He reported the first three numbers of the couple's license plate.

Graham, 42 years old, resides at 4321 Lee avenue.

Joseph Salamona, 9 years old, of 1525 North Leffingwell avenue, suffered a fractured right leg and skull injuries last night when struck by an automobile as he was crossing Cass avenue in the 2700 block. He is in City Hospital.

The driver, Sidney Alcorn, 1919 Coleman street, told police the boy ran from the sidewalk into the path of his car.

WOMAN, 74, IGNORES TRAFFIC OFFICER; HIT BY STREET CAR

Mrs. Julia Hill, 74 years old, suffered a skull injury yesterday afternoon when struck by a Cass street car at Sixth street and Washington avenue. She is in serious condition at City Hospital.

A traffic patrolman reported that Mrs. Hill started across Sixth street after he had signaled for the movement of southbound traffic on the one-way street. Mrs. Hill resides at 533 Fairview avenue, Webster Groves.

HURT, GOES ON WITH SHOW

Opera Singer Performs With Two Sprained Ankles.

By The Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 11. — Two sprained ankles, received in a fall on the stage, did not keep Opera Singer Rose Pauly from completing the title role in Richard Strauss' "Elektra" last night.

Mrs. Pauly stumbled in descending a steep step early in the performance. Her part called for her to be on the stage at all times during the one-act presentation, and for more than an hour she sang and acted her role so successfully that the audience was unaware of the injury.

$13,635 in Attic of Woman Who Died an Abject Pauper

Packages of Bills, $505 in Gold Found Hidden in Wash Stand of Recluse Who Ate Food From Garbage Cans.

Miss Jennie Devlin, who lived in abject poverty and salvaged food from garbage cans, had $13,635 secreted in her attic room at 3162 North Eleventh street, a search by the Public Administrator's office revealed yesterday. Miss Devlin, who was 74 years old, died of heart disease and pneumonia Sunday at City Hospital.

Neighbors could not explain how she had accumulated the money and knew of no source of income. She owned her seven-room residence, but was the only occupant living in the attic.

The money was in old, large-size currency and $505 was in gold, in a small pasteboard box. The currency was in fives, tens and twenties, sorted in $100 lots bound together with rubber bands so old that they broke readily. A package of $1000 was marked "1000 in here," apparently in Miss Devlin's handwriting.

$800 in Pocketbook. Thomas M. Brady, an investigator for the Public Administrator, searching since Monday, found the currency in drawers of an old wash stand in the corner of the attic and in a letter file. A notation in the letter file read "8000 in here." It was there. In one of the many old pocketbooks, Miss Devlin had accumulated, Brady found about $800.

Neighbors called police the afternoon of Nov. 7 after they had not seen Miss Devlin for several days. Going through the unoccupied first and second floors, police climbed a stairway to the attic, but the door was locked. Crawling through a transom, a policeman found Miss Devlin unconscious on her homemade bed of soap boxes, slats and burlap and canvas. She was taken to City Hospital.

In her room, police found two dogs, one dead, apparently of starvation. The other was turned over to the Humane Society.

Neighbors told Brady that Miss Devlin had feared someone was trying to poison her. She kept the first floor empty and, although, she had moldy furniture on the second floor, she lived and slept in the attic. She had no light, gas or water. A flashlight and coal-oil lamp apparently provided illumination.

Refused Offers of Food. Although neighbors and a confectioner frequently offered food to her, thinking she was a pauper, she never accepted anything, but waited until they had thrown the food in garbage cans and then salvaged it.

In the attic, Brady found what appeared to be a truck-load of rags. He learned Miss Devlin's sister, Alice, who died five or six years ago, formerly worked for a rag dealer. The rags were stuffed in bushel baskets and pinned together.

An appraiser said the piano, mold-hair-stuffed furniture and moly carpets on the second floor were of no value.

Letters found in her room indicated she had relatives in Ireland, who are being notified of her death by the Public Administrator. The body is at the Pest Bros. undertaking establishment, 3029 Lafayette avenue.

MAN, SOUGHT IN BROKERAGE FRAUD, CAUGHT AFTER 7 YEARS

R. E. Lancaster, Active Socially, Amassed Fortune of $500,000, New York Police Say.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. — The office of Attorney-General John J. Bennett said today that Robert E. Lancaster, hunted for seven years by New York, California and Mexico police on charges of fraudulent brokerage activities, had been arrested in Orlando, Fla.

The Attorney-General's office said Lancaster, who had acquired a mustache and horn-rimmed glasses, was prominent in the social life of Westchester County, lived in an upper east side penthouse and amassed a fortune of $500,000 through fraudulent manipulations and "outright theft" while police hunted for him.

He was an active member of the Westchester Country Club at Rye, N. Y., and operated half a dozen investment trusts and securities firms which furnished his income.

GIRL BRIDE, 12, TO BE SENT TO INSTITUTION TILL SHE IS 21

Kentucky Judge, in Interview, Announces Decision on Child Wife of Man 60.

By the Associated Press.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 11.—Boyd County Judge George G. Bell said yesterday he would commit Ruth Whitt Howard, 12-year-old bride, to a state institution to be taught a manual trade and given an opportunity "to make something of herself."

Judge Bell, here for an alcohol control conference, disclosed his decision in an interview. He said the girl must remain in the institution until she is 21.

G. O. P. VICTORY BRINGS OUT YOUNG LEADERS

Many Governors Chosen Below Middle Age; Youthful Group in Congress.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The revival of the Republican party has brought forward a set of new and younger leaders, some of them almost unknown to their older colleagues here.

Most of the newcomers are below middle age; a few are still in their early thirties. In several cases their campaign technique and their platforms have been at sharp variance with the teachings of their party predecessors.

Some of these victors in Tuesday's election will come to the Senate, where there already are two comparatively young Republicans—Lodge of Massachusetts and Bridges of New Hampshire. Others will go to the House, and several will sit in Governor's chairs which Democrats have occupied.

In the group are a few who already have been mentioned as 1940 presidential possibilities, such as Robert A. Taft, 49 years old, Senator-elect in Ohio, and Thomas E. Dewey, 36, who nearly defeated Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York.

Taft, Dewey and James. Taft, tall, round-faced son of a former President, lived in the White House when a young man. His previous political experience has included several terms in the Ohio Legislature.

Dewey began a war on New York's racketeers in 1935 when he was appointed a special prosecutor and carried it on after his election as Manhattan District Attorney a year ago. An Owosso (Mich.) boy who went to New York to study law at Columbia University, he has an impressive baritone voice that friends call a political asset.

Another potent figure among the Republican winners is Judge Arthur H. James, who was elected Governor of Pennsylvania after campaigning with a "miners' quartet." The men wore miners' outfits and sang lusty songs in which the candidate joined. Son of a Welsh miner, the sandy-haired James worked in the mines himself as a breaker boy during his childhood vacations.

John W. Bricker, who won the Ohio governorship, is a gray-haired war veteran, whose dynamic oratory is in contrast to the scholarly approach of Senator-Elect Taft.

Leverett Saltonstall, who at 46 becomes Governor of Massachusetts, looks like a typical New Englander. He is tall, angular and raw-boned, with a long chin and high-arched brows.

Listed as Capitalist. Like Saltonstall, the Governor-elect of Rhode Island, William H. Vanderbilt, is socially prominent, wealthy, and scion of an old family. In who's who the 36-year-old Vanderbilt, a former State Senator, lists himself as a capitalist.

Only three years older is John A. Danaher of Connecticut, who at 39 will be one of the younger Senators. When the Republican Senatorial Committee asked him what funds he wanted for his campaign, he replied that he didn't need any. He was sure to defeat Senator Longworth anyway, he said.

Raymond E. Baldwin, the Governor-elect of Connecticut, is 44, an eighth generation New Englander, and a lawyer with a relatively short political background.

There are new faces in the midwest, too—Payne Ratner, an ally of Alf M. Landon elected Governor of Kansas, and Julius (The Just) Hell, a Milwaukee manufacturer who upset the La Follette administration in Wisconsin by capturing the Governor's chair.

31-Year-Old Governor. The youngest Governor next year will be Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, 31-year-old lawyer who defeated the Farmer-Laborite incumbent. Stassen's only previous political office was that of County Attorney, but he insisted on managing his own campaign. He calls himself a "streamlined progressive."

Behind the scenes there have been many changes in Republican National Committeemen during the last few years. In Connecticut, for example, J. Henry Roraback died, and in New York Charles D. Hillis retired.

Roraback's successor is Samuel Fraser Fryor Jr., 40, an amateur boxer who is a close friend of Gene Tunney. The new York Committeeman is Kenneth Simpson, 48, yachtsman and collector of modern art. He was a captain in the World War, and has served as assistant United States attorney in New York.

Individuals Get 44 Parcels, Assessed at $164,840, for $14,047.

About 600 parcels of real estate on which delinquent taxes have accrued for five or more years were offered for sale by a city deputy collector yesterday at the east door of the Civil Courts Building, the third day of the sale.

The City of St. Louis bought 177 parcels for $9484. Taxes due on them amounted to $75,947 and their assessed value in 1937 was $580,540. Individuals bought 44 parcels for $14,047.44. Taxes due on these parcels were $33,062 and their assessed value was $164,840.

The law governing the sale provides that the price at the first two offerings must equal the amount of the accrued taxes. Most of the parcels bid in yesterday were being offered for the third time. The sale will continue through Wednesday.

INDO-CHINA SAID TO HAVE BARRED WAR SHIPMENTS

South Route Over Which Chinese Have Been Getting Supplies Reported Closed by French.

By the Associated Press.
SHANGHAI, Nov. 11.—American firms in Shanghai received reports today that French authorities in Indo-China had imposed an embargo against the importation of war supplies destined for China. It was said the embargo, undertaken to remove friction with the Japanese, included trucks and spare motor parts despite representations to the French that they are not war supplies.

Closing of the Indo-China route to imports would seriously cripple Chinese defenses since the only other remaining import routes would be through Burma, with a long overland haul, and from Soviet Russia into northwestern China.

The Japanese now are threatening imports via Russia through an advance into inner Mongolia, with the aim of severing the Lanchow-Ulanbator motor road and forcing the Chinese to use camel caravans. Japanese activities were believed to indicate Lanchow, a key point of communications with Russia, in Kansu Province, would be subjected soon to bombing and overland attacks.

The Chinese continued their resistance to save Yochow, important rail and river center 122 miles up the Yangtze from Hankow, and impede the Japanese advance toward

Ruins and Guns Left in Canton by Fleeing Chinese

Scene in Canton near the Wongsba station after the city was captured by the Japanese.

Changsha, Hunan provincial capital. One hundred and six foreigners, including 26 Americans, were reported still in Changsha.

The Chinese press reported that 15 Japanese warplanes raided Liuyang, 45 miles west of Changsha, and dropped more than 100 bombs that caused an estimated 1000 casualties, many fires and heavy damage.

Reports received in Hongkong from Hankow said that Japanese occupied metropolis faced a serious food shortage.

Dispatches from Chungking, the new provincial capital, recounted that a new fighting spirit was apparent among Chinese in Central China.

Increased fighting in Southern China was reported in bulletins from Hongkong. These said the Chinese reported they were closing in on fallen Canton from three sides, although Japanese denied the reports. Artillery fire was heard all day in Canton, apparently from the southeast, where it was thought a Chinese division was fighting to escape encirclement by the Japanese. Japanese said Chinese forces which Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek ordered to retake Canton were concentrated in northern Kwangtung province but had not approached Canton, capital of the province.

U. S. France and Britain Protest on Yangtze Navigation.

By the Associated Press.
TOKYO, Nov. 11.—The Foreign Office spokesman disclosed today that the United States, Great Britain and France separately delivered what he called "representations" last Monday regarding navigation on the Yangtze River.

The spokesman said the representations were made to the Japanese government. He added: "The replies will be separate. However, this was based on misinformation. Japanese vessels were used for military purposes only, not commercial. The Yangtze still is a danger zone with in the area of hostilities. Fighting is continuing there."

er procedures listed have been utilized in the progressive education movement. Merits of this movement are a controversial subject. Under Dr. Gerling's administration the general tendency of the public schools has been in a middle-ground between extreme conservatism and the progressive plan.

Underwood said to the reporter that the purpose of the notice was to check up on the extent of use of modern teaching and to see that a proper balance was effected between formal teaching and the later procedures. It was not desired to change the aspect of teaching in preparation for the survey, he declared, adding that he did not feel the notice could be construed as an effort to make the quality of teaching appear better than it has been.

"We don't want any special things," said Dr. Gerling. "We want the normal, regular procedure carried on and nothing done in special preparation for the survey. I am very anxious for the survey to represent the normal, usual work we are doing, and I desire merely what is regularly done in the schools."

COCHRAN FAVORS CHANGE IN MISSISSIPPI CHANNEL

Committee Favoring Shift to Present Its Proposal at Army Engineers' Hearing.

Congressman John J. Cochran, a member of the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors, discussed the proposal for improving the Mississippi River from East St. Louis to its confluence with the Missouri at a meeting at Hotel Jefferson yesterday of a north riverfront committee.

The committee, formed several years ago to support a proposal for shifting the channel of the Mississippi River and creating a park and airport on Mosentine Island, which would be joined to the mainland, voted to appear Thursday at a public hearing to be conducted by the Army Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors. The board, acting on a resolution of the House committee, will report on the proposal at the next session of Congress.

Cochran said the proposal would eliminate one of the greatest hazards to navigation on the river and provide a harbor for Granite City, now blocked by the island.

U. S. JUDGE SENTENCES NINE ON GUILTY PLEAS

Man, 86, Who Has Served 12 Terms, Gets 6 Months for Impersonating Officer.

Nine men were sentenced to jail or prison terms yesterday by United States District Judge Charles E. Davis on their pleas of guilty of violating various Federal statutes.

William W. Woodruff, 86 years old, admitted impersonating a Federal agent to cash a worthless $10 check in Crystal City and was sentenced to six months in jail. He has a record of 12 previous penitentiary sentences since 1888. An expert at repairing safes, at which he was employed in Crystal City, Woodruff gave an exhibition in the Marshal's office yesterday of how to open a safe without knowing the combination.

Noel W. Heenan, Donald R. Scott and Harold J. Horne, all of Coffeyville, Kan., pleaded guilty of transporting a stolen automobile from Bartlesville, Ok., to St. Louis and were sentenced to a year and a day in jail.

Robert B. Unwin, who said he lived in Wallingford, Conn., was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary on his plea of guilty of impersonating a Federal officer to obtain loans. He had previously worked the scheme in 26 other cities, his record showed.

Sentences of six months in jail were imposed on three Negroes, Robert Winston, William Wallace and Frank Thomas, for theft from an interstate shipment, and another Negro, David Savage, was given 18 months for transporting a stolen automobile from St. Louis to Brooklyn, Ill.

SAWYER OF OHIO DISCLOSES ROOSEVELT PHONED HIM

Defeated Democratic Candidate for Governor Tells of Talk at 1 A. M.

By the Associated Press.
CINCINNATI, Nov. 11.—Democratic National Committeeman Charles Sawyer, defeated candidate for Governor of Ohio, disclosed today that President Roosevelt telephoned him early Wednesday to ascertain the trend of voting.

"It was about 1 a. m.," said Sawyer. "He asked me how things were going. I told him I thought we were licked."

"And," Sawyer grinned, "we were, weren't we?"

TENTATIVE AGREEMENT ON LIME FIRM CHARGES

Proposed Settlement of Ste.
Genevieve Case Put Up to NLRB.

A tentative settlement of the National Labor Relations Board charges of unfair labor practices against two Ste. Genevieve (Mo.) lime companies was announced today by attorneys for the board and the firms.

If approved by the NLRB at Washington, the charges will be dismissed and a hearing, originally scheduled for Monday at Ste. Genevieve and twice postponed, will not be held. The concerns, the Peerless White Lime Co. and the Ste. Genevieve Lime & Cement Co., signed closed shop contracts Wednesday with an A. F. of L. union, complainant in the cases, ending a five-month strike.

Operations were resumed at the two plants yesterday, and company attorneys said most of the strikers would be called back to work within a few days. Work began Tuesday at the plant of the Bluff City Lime Co., also of Ste. Genevieve, as a result of a settlement reached with the NLRB and the union Monday. About 400 men were employed at the three plants when the strike, called to enforce demands for a closed shop, began last June.

The Peerless and Ste. Genevieve concerns, in a stipulation signed yesterday, agreed to withhold recognition from an independent union and to observe all regulations of the Wagner Act in regard to employment relations. Because of the contracts signed with the A. F. of L. union, charges of refusal to bargain collectively with employee representatives were withdrawn.

Robert Hawes, attorney for the Peerless company said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the stipulation could not be regarded as an admission of guilt in regard to the Wagner Act violations charged in the NLRB complaint. He declared that members of the union had asked the companies to use all means possible in settling the cases, "to preserve harmony and industrial peace in Ste. Genevieve."

Informal Hearing Called.

Trial Examiner Clifford E. Dudley will conduct an informal hearing at the Labor Board offices in the Federal Building tomorrow morning in order to make minor changes in the Bluff City concern's stipulation. He adjourned the hearing Monday when the company announced a settlement with the union and again on Wednesday when the two other firms announced the signing of contracts.

The original complaints charged the three companies with sponsorship of an independent union in an attempt to undermine the A. F. of L. local, coercion and intimidation of employees in their rights to self-organization and refusal to bargain collectively. In addition, it was charged that a back-to-work movement was begun in an attempt to break the strike and that industrial spies were hired by the firms.

C. W. NASH TESTIFIES IN ALUMINUM SUIT

Says Auto Makers Virtually Quit Using Material After Big Price Boost.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Charles W. Nash of Beverly Hills, Cal., testified yesterday in the Government's Sherman Anti-trust Law suit against the Aluminum Co. of America that the action of the company in increasing the price of aluminum from 18 to 31 cents a pound in 1915 resulted in the virtual discontinuance of the use of aluminum in automobile manufacturing.

Nash, president of General Motors from 1912 to 1916, testified that after the price increase, he called his engineers and told them to work out a substitute for aluminum. Nash later formed his own automobile concern.

Joseph Uihlein, Milwaukee, part owner of the Schlitz Brewing Co., testified Wednesday that he and his family had been "pursued and persecuted" by the Aluminum Co. of America until he sold his bauxite and carbon holdings to the company for $4,200,000.

He said he had tried to persuade authorities in Holland to make bauxite deposits in Dutch Guiana available to him but that the Dutch "were afraid the granting of privileges to a possible rival of the Aluminum Co. of America would bring about conflict with the United States."

He said when he tried to get bauxite deposits in British Guiana, "the aluminum company threw tentacles around us and obstructed us from getting those and other fields."

Asphyxiation Victim Identified.

By the Associated Press.
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 11.—A girl who died of asphyxiation in an Albuquerque automobile camp Tuesday was identified yesterday as Lily Mae Johnson, 15 years old, of Poplar Bluff, Mo. An aunt, Mrs. Charles Russell of Poplar Bluff, said the girl had been reared by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wilbur of Joplin.

The girl was identified as their daughter at the time of the accident. Wilbur also died of asphyxiation. Mrs. Wilbur is recovering.

FIVE ON JURY AT TRIAL OF KILLER OF MODEL

Defendant Grimaces, Clenches Hands as Talesmen Are Questioned.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Robert Irwin, who killed three persons on Easter morning last year, twisted, grimaced and clenched and unclenched his fingers as selection of jurors for his trial for murder proceeded slowly yesterday. Two jurors were added to the three selected Monday.

Defense Counsel Samuel Leibowitz hopes to save Irwin from the electric chair on the grounds of insanity. Leibowitz admits Irwin, former sculptor, killed Veronica Gedeon, photographer's model, her mother and a boarder in their Beekman Hill apartment.

The prospective appearance of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, who was defeated for the governorship this week, again figured. Leibowitz asked prospective jurors whether their judgment of the case would be influenced by Dewey's expected participation in the prosecution.

At the last session, before election, Leibowitz had questioned talesmen about possible connections with Dewey's campaign. None

HOBOES RIDE YACHT SHIPPED TO FLORIDA FROM OHIO BY RAIL

Drink All Beer in Refrigerator and Sleep in Beds With Boots On.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 11.—Hoboes who hopped a freight somewhere between Dayton, O., and Miami ran into a bit of good luck—they made a yachting trip to Florida while riding the rails.

Ray Barlow, Dayton, with a winter home here, shipped his 50-foot cruiser southward on a flat car. It had beer in the refrigerator, the beds were made up, the radio was connected—everything was ready to slide it overboard and go sailing.

But after arriving the craft was hurriedly sent to a marine service company for a thorough cleaning. Empty beer bottles were on the floor, cigarette stubs were strewn around and the beds had been slept in, apparently by persons with boots on.

Of those questioned yesterday thought Dewey would influence them, although two were excused because they knew members of the prosecution staff.

Leibowitz asked one prospective juror whether he knew Paul Manship, internationally known sculptor, whose name had not entered in the case previously, but would not disclose how Manship was expected to figure in the trial. Irwin knew several sculptures, including Caro Romanelli of Hollywood, who may be called as a witness.

Leibowitz centered his questions to talesmen on whether they had any predetermined idea of how an insane man looked, and whether they thought Irwin should be executed regardless of his possible insanity, to protect society.

Assistant District Attorney Jacob Rosenblum, in charge of the prosecution, indicated that a man who has been confined in asylums might still be responsible under the law if sane at the moment of the crime. Irwin has been in several asylums.

Legion Ex-Commander Killed.

FAIRMONT, Minn., Nov. 11.—Edwin L. Lindell of Minneapolis, former Minnesota commander of the American Legion and former executive secretary of the Minnesota Law and Order League, was killed near here last night when his automobile left the highway and landed 40 feet away in a plowed field. He was 44 years old.

Missouri Republicans Gain Seven Seats in Legislature

Party at Next Session to Have 52 Places in Lower House—Democratic Total
Is 98.

Tabulation of returns from Tuesday's election, completed today, showed that Republicans gained seven seats in the State House of Representatives, giving them 52 places in the House against 98 for the Democrats.

A majority of the House is 76. The Republicans, in the session opening early in January will have slightly more than one-third of the personnel. This will be their largest membership since the 1931 session. In the 1933 session there were only 30 Republican Representatives.

There will be no change in the political division of the State Senate, which will continue to have three Republican members and 31 Democrats. Senators were elected this time from half of the districts, those with even numbers.

Twelve Republicans were elected from districts previously represented in the House by Democrats. Among them are two members from St. Louis County: Forrest Mittendorf and Hartwell G. Crain. The others are from Green, Jasper, Cape Girardeau, Clark, Newton, Daviess, Lawrence, Livingston, St. Francois and Ste. Genevieve counties.

However, five Democrats were elected from Barry, Grundy, McDonald, Osage and Sullivan counties, which previously were represented by Republicans.

The Democratic majority in the House will consist of 53 Representatives re-elected and 40 new members, while 27 Republicans were re-elected and 25 will be newcomers.

The only woman member of the last House, Mrs. Gladys E. Stewart, Republican, of Ava, Douglas County, was re-elected.

Besides Speaker Christy, a dentist at Festus, Roy B. Hamlin of Hannibal, Democratic floor leader in the last session, was among those re-elected.

Seats in New Senate.

The new Senate will consist of 22 Democrats and three Republicans who served in the last session and nine new Democratic Senators. Because Senator Albert M. Clark of Richmond, who was president pro tem at the last session was elected to the Supreme Court of Missouri, a new president pro tem must be chosen. It has been reported that Senator Joseph H. Brogan of St. Louis is in line for this important post. He is a leader of the dominant Casey-Kinney-Brogan combine of the Senate, with which Clark was aligned. Senator Frank P. Briggs of Macon has been suggested for majority floor leader.

Returns on State Senate.

Nearly complete returns from the 37 State Senatorial districts show that Democrats were elected in all districts except the Twenty-sixth, in which Senator George A. Rozier was re-elected, and in the Fourth, in which Senator Ray Mabey, Republican, was re-elected without opposition.

The vote was:

Second district: Francis Smith (Dem.), elected without opposition. Fourth: Ray Mabey (Rep.), elected without opposition.

had not been made up and in answer to questions he declined to say whether Gov. Murphy of Michigan would be appointed to the Supreme Court, he returned as high commissioner to the Philippine Islands, or offered any other Federal post. He said Murphy's name was not on the list because the list had not been made.

The announcement regarding immediate appointments was expected. It is usual for Presidents to withhold appointments until after elections so some defeated candidates can be given administrative jobs. At Warm Springs, he said, he would devote his attention to the Federal budget. He declined to comment on the announcement by Argentina yesterday that the dumping of American wheat in Brazil would be considered as the equivalent of an "international incident." He said that other Federal officials had already commented on this, that he only knew what he had seen in the papers, and therefore could not comment without first checking the stories.

Hepatitis Claims Cited.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The Trade Commission announced yesterday it has accused Myers Co., of Hillsdale, N. J., of making misleading representations in connection with the sale of "Hepatitis." It was alleged that claims made for this remedy are too broad, although it was stated that "it may be beneficial in cases where gastric hyperacidity is present and that it will, as do other remedies, remove waste from the intestinal tract."

SECRET WIFE SAYS MAN KILLED HIMSELF IN PARK

Submits Fingers and Glove to Paraffin Tests in Chicago Investigation.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Lillian Layton, 21-year-old drama student, submitted her fingers and glove to paraffin tests yesterday at the order of officials investigating the death of Richard Novick, 26.

The girl related at an inquest earlier that Novick had shot himself early yesterday in Lincoln Park after she refused to accompany him to California. She also testified they had been married secretly by a Justice of the Peace five years ago but she did not consider the wedding binding since it had not been validated by an orthodox Jewish ceremony.

They were seated in his car at the end of one of their rare evenings together, Miss Layton said, when she declined to go west with him. Novick asserted "you don't love me," she added, got out and fired a revolver bullet into his temple despite her screams and protests. She and Novick were seriously injured when his car collided with a truck in 1936. Her right arm was amputated above the elbow.

PERSHING ADVISES
U. S. TO REINFORCE
DEFENSES QUICKLY

'We Are Natural Protectors of This Hemisphere,' He Declares in Armistice Day Statement.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—General John J. Pershing counseled the nation today, 20 years after he led the American armies to victory in the World War, to take "prompt and vigorous action" to reinforce its defenses.

"The situation in the world today is as menacing as at any critical time in history," the commander of the A. E. F. said in an Armistice day statement.

"Last there be relied upon us the recent experience of England and France," he urged an adequate, thoroughly trained and equipped army, supported by a mobilized industry.

"We are the natural protectors of the freedom of this hemisphere, and we can not escape our obligation," he declared.

"To meet what he described as the requirements of national defense promptly and without excitement," General Pershing said, "is, in my opinion, the most important duty that confronts the American people on this twentieth anniversary of the armistice."

"The performance of that duty should preserve our peace, and if that proves impossible will enable us to be secure behind our defenses," he added.

"More than this, it will bring home to other governments our strength, and will pave the way for reduction in armaments, which is the wish of all of us who hate war."

"The armistice twenty years ago ended the greatest war in history. We in America are proud of the record of our armies in that terrific struggle, and we cherish the memory that they were the decisive factor in the defeat of the common enemy."

"The lessons of the war, with all its appalling loss of human life and its cost and its threat to the very existence of our civilization, stand out plainly before us."

AUTOPSY ON BROTHERS

FOUND DEAD ON FARM

Inquest Delayed Pending Report on Medical Examination at Braceville, Ill.

By the Associated Press.

BRACEVILLE, Ill., Nov. 11.—Solution of the unexplained deaths of two bachelor brothers, Oscar and Victor Peterson, hinged today on the results of an autopsy.

The brothers, Oscar, 59 years old, and Victor, 57, occupied a farm in Grundy County together, but slept in separate houses. Medical examiners, called by the mother, Mrs. John Peterson, who became alarmed after she had not heard from her sons, found no apparent causes for death. An examination showed no outward signs of violence. The bodies were found fully clothed on their beds yesterday. A formal inquest was delayed pending completion of the autopsy.

Sheriff Irvin Kay announced two other brothers of the dead men would be questioned. One, Anton Peterson, 45, of Chicago, demanded a thorough investigation. He told the Sheriff his brothers had peculiar ideas on diet, that they ate no meat, and expected to live to be 100 years old. The other brother, Alfred, lives with the mother.

SENATOR TRUMAN ASSAILS

FOREIGN POLICY OF U. S.

Calls "Outlawing" of War, Silly Phrase in Armistice Day Speech at Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 11.—The United States foreign policy since Versailles was criticized in an Armistice day address today by Senator Harry S. Truman (Dem., Missouri).

"Our failure to take our place in world affairs upsets the whole apple-cart and we are right back where Julius Caesar left off," Senator Truman said in a speech at the Liberty War Memorial. "After we failed to ratify the Versailles treaty, all sorts of expedients were resorted to such as 'outlawing' war—a silly phrase to begin with; neutrality laws that won't work; sinking our navy and a lot of other folderol that won't have any more effect on the course of events than trying to dam Niagara or change the course of Mars. Peace is a state of mind. We can't even have it here at home."

Four thousand persons marched in Kansas City's Armistice day parade which was led by Gen. E. M. Stuyton.

GOVERNMENT BUYS 3 SHIPS

It Takes Over Munson Liners at Foreclosure Auction.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The United States Maritime Commission paid $250,000 for three former Munson Line passenger ships at a public auction yesterday.

The Pan America went for $80,000, the Southern Cross for $85,000 and the Western World for $85,000. The ships were built at an original cost of $12,000,000 and were used in the trade to the east coast of South America. The Government recently foreclosed first mortgages of $700,000 which it held on each ship and the American Legion, another Munson liner recently purchased by the commission.

PARIS BARS MARCH BY VETERANS WHO SEEK NEW CABINET

Thousands of Mobile Guards Patrol Streets With Orders to Stop Anti-Daladier Demonstration.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Thousands of steel-helmeted mobile guards patrolled Paris today with strict orders to stop any war veterans' demonstration for a "public safety" cabinet.

There was a long military parade past the tomb of the unknown soldier today in observance of the signing of the armistice 20 years ago. The veterans had gathered, however, to demand a new administration to strengthen the nation in the face of Nazi Germany's rise to power.

The day's celebration proceeded peacefully with hundreds of thousands of persons jammed around the Arch of Triumph to see President Albert Lebrun lay a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Troops then paraded down the Champs Elysees for more than an hour. Premier Edouard Daladier left in a motor car to shouts of "Long Live Daladier" after reviewing the troops.

Veterans' organizations have declared a government above political parties and with great power is needed if France is to mend its finances and economic system and regain a strong diplomatic and military position in Europe.

Thousands of veterans from Paris and the provinces were ready to answer the call of their leaders should they carry through plans to ask President Albert Lebrun to turn Premier Edouard Daladier out of office for this "public safety" government.

Daladier conferred with the veterans' chieftains until early this morning. The conference followed reports that Henri Pichot and Jean Goy, heads of the veterans' organizations enrolling millions of members, were prepared to order a march on Elysee Palace to present the demands to the President.

The Ministry of Pensions acted to halt this with an order forbidding all war veterans' parades under any pretext whatsoever to follow the army parade in the morning.

Gen. Maxime Weygand, Marshal Foch's wartime protégé, who retired as Chief of Staff in 1936, called on his countrymen to banish "division, illusion and confusion" which he declared resulted in the loss of world war victory in the 20 years which have followed. He condemned internal weakness which he said forced France to "lower its flag before German strength" at the four-Power Munich conference on the partition of Czechoslovakia, Sept. 29. His appeal was in an article published in Le Journal.

The mobile guard reinforcements were reported in Chamber of Deputies' lobbies to have been brought to Paris because authorities feared the city's own police might refuse to use force against the war veterans should they attempt to march to the President's residence.

INDICTED, ACCUSED OF MURDER OF GIRL IN ROOMING HOUSE

Man Held Without Bond in Death of Student, 17, at Fort Wayne, Ind.

By the Associated Press.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Nov. 11.—Adrian H. Miller of Racine, Wis., 31-year-old engineering student, ex-convict and former sailor, was indicted last night on a murder charge in the rooming house killing of Alice May Gorton, 17. Miss Gorton, business college girl, was killed last Oct. 13.

The indictment declares Miller assaulted the girl in her room across the hall from his own room and forced her silk underwear into her mouth to suffocate her.

Detective Capt. John Taylor said Miller confessed soon after his arrest. Miller said he had served seven months of a Mann Act sentence from San Diego, Cal., in 1931. He said he later went to South America and came here last June. Miller had paid part of his way through school by painting the school buildings. He is in jail without bond.

1907 MODEL FIRST TO FINISH IN ANTIQUE AUTO DERBY

Covers 35 Miles From Trenton, N. J., to Philadelphia in Hour and 40 Minutes.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—Wearing goggles and a linen duster, Theodore Flaila, a Philadelphiaan, stepped from his 1907 model today the first to arrive in the eighth annual antique automobile derby. He had covered 35 miles from Trenton, N. J., in one hour and 40 minutes. He and Mrs. Frank Abramson, also of Philadelphia, drove in with a 1906 some time later, saying they had been delayed en route from Trenton by a stop to report to police the loss of Mrs. Abramson's handbag.

A driver whose early model chugged in from Downingtown told a tale of repeated blowouts that slowed his trip.

Winners, the judges announced, would be determined by the age of the car, its condition, the distance traveled, and the costumes of the drivers.

ANCED ISOLATIO OF U. S. SHATTE

British Lecturer Hi When He Defends C berlain's Course in tion and Answer P

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Mention of "where will the settlement lead?" drew out opinions last night from German lecturer Felix Morley and Mrs. McCormick, who agreed that the pact had tremendous burden on the states.

Speaking on a broad "America's town meeting" air, they agreed the United States was partly to blame for membership of Czechoslovakia in the League of Nations. Morley, editor of the Washington Post, said the United States was partly to blame for the membership of Czechoslovakia in the League of Nations. Morley, editor of the Washington Post, said the United States was partly to blame for the membership of Czechoslovakia in the League of Nations.

Said Johnson, former NE administrator:

"What is the lesson? There are ravens wolves world—in Germany, in Japan. Munich made Germany immeasurably stronger. She is the enemy of our principal individual liberty. She is the enemy of our economic life because what she needs is in countries which have no resources. She is the enemy of our American policy—the doctrine—because such must principally in South America. If Germany proves the triumph, her cause is proved also that force has won. Mrs. McCormick, a writer for the New York Times, Pulitzer prize winner for correspondence.

In the end there may be a way by fighting to prove vital to our life as a nation. The experience of our own generation drives us first every other way—d bargaining, economic battle, propaganda, example, sacrifice, tip-service to our ideas, recognition of the cause, diagnosis of the national strengthening of our own economy, our own in our own moral fiber. It needs vitamins. It is a strong lead. Where do this lead should come from? British Lecturer Hil Barnes and hisses came audience as Maj. James Barnes, British lecturer of John Starchey, radio arose to speak during the and answer period that the talks. Barnes declared Prime Chamberlain "would not changed his stand at Munich if England had been pre-war."

Only Communists and consider Germany a country were disappointed Munich settlement," he said. The audience hissed. Barnes had difficulty making self heard.

WOMAN, 110, IS WITNESS IN FAMILY DISPUTE SUIT

Son and Grandson Disagreed as to Whether Latter Would Be Paid for Keeping Her.

DULUTH, Minn., Nov. 10.—A family quarrel over a board bill brought Mrs. Theodora Sacarello, 110 years old, of Duluth, into court as a witness yesterday.

There had been a dispute between her son, John Sacarello, 66, and a grandson, Sam Callias, who lives in Virginia, Minn. It seems that from April 23, 1934, to Sept. 30, 1934, and from May 1, 1935 to Nov. 24, 1935, Mrs. Sacarello lived at Sam's home.

Sam said he had made an agreement with John Sacarello whereby the woman would live with him and that he would be paid $20 a month for this service. All the other years since she came to this country in 1921, Mrs. Sacarello had lived with her son in Duluth.

John told the court that when his mother went to Virginia, it was as a guest of Sam and that no agreement had been made as to payment.

The mother testified in behalf of her son. She said she had been asked to go to Virginia and visit. The jury returned a verdict for her son.

MUNICH PEACE PUT BURDEN ON U.S., DEBATERS SAY

Sen. Johnson, Editor Felix Morley and Mrs. Anne McCormick Discuss Czech Dismemberment.

FANCIED ISOLATION OF U. S. SHATTERED

British Lecturer Hissed When He Defends Chamberlain's Course in Question and Answer Period.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A discussion of "where will the Munich settlement lead?" drew divergent opinions last night from Sen. Hugh Johnson, Felix Morley and Mrs. Anne O'Hare McCormick, but all agreed that the pact had thrust a tremendous burden on the United States.

Speaking on a broadcast of America's town meeting of the night, they agreed the United States was partly to blame for the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia by Nazi Germany.

Morley, editor of the Washington Post, citing the Neutrality Act as an encouragement to German aggression, told of a confidential interview he had with President Roosevelt's Czechoslovakia.

"I put the question of our neutrality policy to President Roosevelt," he said. "That democratic little statesman did not hesitate in stating his opinion. 'It is not my business,' he said, 'to criticize the policy of your country, but here in Czechoslovakia we feel that American neutrality legislation is in the nature of a blank check to Germany to fill out at our expense.'"

"Cost Heavy for America," Morley said. "That blank check," said Morley, "has been filled out. And the cost is heavy. For no country will it be more heavy than for the United States. The simultaneous emergence of Germany and Japan as clearly dominant powers shatters the fancied isolation of the United States."

Said Johnson, former NRA administrator:

"What is the lesson for us? There are ravening wolves in the world—in Germany, in Italy, in Japan. Munich made German power immeasurably stronger. She is the enemy of our principal institution—individual liberty. She is the enemy of our economic institutions because what she needs is markets in countries which have raw materials. She is the enemy of our Pan-American policy—the Monroe doctrine—because such markets exist principally in South America."

"If Germany proves that force triumphs, her very comeback moves also that force has failed," said Mrs. McCormick, an editorial writer for the New York Times and Pulitzer prize winner for foreign correspondence.

"In the end there may be no other way but fighting to protect what is vital to our life as free men; meantime the experience of our own generation drives us to try first every other way—diplomacy, bargaining, economic battle, propaganda, example, sacrifice instead of re-service to our ideas, honest recognition of the causes of war, diagnosis of the national diseases, strengthening of our own unity, our own economy, our own institutions, our own moral fiber. Democracy needs vitamins. It is ready for a strong lead. Where do you think this lead should come from?"

British Lecturer Hissed.

Boos and hisses came from the audience as Maj. James Strachey Barnes, British lecturer and cousin of John Strachey, radical writer, arose to speak during the question and answer period that followed the talks.

Barnes declared Prime Minister Chamberlain "would not have changed his stand at Munich even if England had been prepared for war."

"Only Communists and those who consider Germany a dog country were disappointed with the Munich settlement," he said.

The audience hissed again and Barnes had difficulty making himself heard.

RETAILERS SEE WALLACE ON SALE OF SURPLUS PRODUCTS

Express Certain Fears Over Plan to Dispose of Goods at Prices Below Cost.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Retail merchants discussed with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace yesterday the administration's proposal to sell surplus farm products to low income families at prices below cost.

The Secretary told newspaper men later the merchants had "certain fears" concerning the so-called two-price system. He added that the meeting was friendly and satisfactory.

The Secretary's special committee studying methods for putting the two-price system into effect will meet today with representatives of cotton producers, mattress manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and cotton manufacturers.

Mattresses—because they consume a large quantity of cotton—were chosen for the first trial of the two-price system.

More Commentators Comment On Election; Gen. Johnson Says Voters Beat "Third" New Deal

Paul Mallon Quotes Off-the-Record Remark of High Official, "It Was Defeat for Gosdarn Foolishness."

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 201-5 Kellogg Bldg.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Additional comment of political commentators, on Tuesday's elections and their possible impact on the fortunes of President Roosevelt, the New Deal and the Republican party, follows:

Paul Mallon (Ind.), Washington Times—Possibly the most penetrating analysis of the election result was made, off the record, by one of the New Deal's highest officials who is also among the President's best friends. "It was a defeat for gosdarn foolishness—nothing else," said he. . . . There is now no question that the moderates and centrists of both parties will control legislation for the next two years. Big man in the control will be Garner. This means you may expect no step backward, but only sure steps forward. The coal-tail ride is over.

Raymond Clapper (Ind.)—The defeat of the La Follette party king-pin and of the Farmer-Labor Governor, and the losses suffered by the American Labor Party in New York City show that this country, wherever it is going, certainly is not going Communist. Out of the election returns we get a picture of hard-headed democracy, zig-zagging down the middle way. The country is back in hand again. It thinks Roosevelt has done many fine things, but it won't be dictated to even by him. Enough Republicans and conservative Democrats will be on hand in the next Congress to stop any extreme measures. The Republicans are now constituted as a real opposition party. . . . The Democratic political monopoly is broken and the country is in a fair way to see a reasonably matched contest in 1940, not between radicals and reactionaries, but between two parties that both will be well inside the two extremes of political thought, merely working on opposite sides of the middle of the road.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson (Independent)—Just before the election this column did say, in its modest and retiring way, that, regardless of the selection of individual candidates, the election was certain, by the reduction of tremendous New Deal majorities in the popular vote, to show that this country didn't want to buy any European magic of one-man government. That must, by now, be abundantly apparent. It is a comforting signal. It means that, as usual, you can trust the American electorate to remain American. . . . Harry Hopkins—old man is more sincere—told him (the President) that he had the unanimous support of the "underprivileged" . . . The twin Tories, Coker and Cohen, supported this view. . . . I think and have continuously argued here that these well-meaning men were wrong and were the architects of certain misfortunes to Mr. Roosevelt—which has at last occurred. . . .

David Lawrence (anti-New Deal): The American people have applied a corrective to the New Deal. They have not repudiated its humanitarianism, but they have said, in effect, that its arbitrariness and extremes shall be curbed. . . . To say that America has turned to conservatism is to ignore the fact that the victories in the Republican ranks in many instances were won by younger men, not identified with Old Guard Republicanism, and by candidates who openly expressed sympathy with the objectives of the New Deal, though disagreeing with its methods and administrative behavior. . . . The Republican party does not need to change its name, but it has changed its leadership; and, as such, will make a formidable opposition party at the polls in 1940. . . . Effects on 1940 are likely to be made more clear after Congress meets. President Roosevelt's cohorts will insist on drafting him on the theory that he alone can save the party from defeat. Mr. Roosevelt may be astute enough to turn aside in 1940 and try again in 1944, but the pressure from his own side may be more than he can overcome.

Joseph Alsop and Robert Kintner (Ind.)—On the face of the returns, it is difficult to escape the conclusion that the 1938 election is a body-blow to the New Deal. The Democratic party did not fare so badly. The Republican gains are far from decisive as to 1940. What really suffered in the voting was the special brand of intellectual life-liberalism which is suggested by the phrase "New Deal." . . . The fact remains that virtually every elective official with whom the President and his New Dealers felt themselves in real sympathy has been thrown out of office. The New Deal's losses began in the summer primaries, when the Texas liberals, Murrey Maverick and W. D. McFarlane, were trounced by conservative Democrats. And then, on Tuesday, came real disaster. . . . The phenomenon of the defeat of the Maverick-Benson-Murphy type of politician has been too general to be explained away on the grounds of local electioneering quirk. The only plausible inference is that intellectual life-liberalism, symbolized within the New Deal by Harry Hopkins and Tom Corcoran, and outside it by the Mavericks, Bensons and Murphys, is not yet politically naturalized. It has not taken real root among the voters. . . . Altogether, the election's meaning seems to be that, while times are getting harder for Democratic extremists of both kinds, the Republican future remains doubtful, while the prospects are still good for middle-of-the-road Democratic liberals.

Herbert Agar (Ind.), Louisville Courier-Journal.—Tuesday's elections are a death for those who want to see the two parties represent two sharply opposed points of view. It now seems that in 1940 we shall not have a thing so neat as a "progressive" New Deal party opposed by a "conservative" Republican party.

We shall have two parties with much the same ends in view, two parties which disagree chiefly on methods and on personalities. The Democratic party will not be radical enough to suit Harry Hopkins. The Republican party will not be conservative enough to suit Herbert Hoover. . . . The results of last summer's purge and of last Tuesday's election suggests that the American people are in a mood for compromise, for traveling the middle of the road. It seems likely, unless a depression or a foreign war renews our sense of crisis, that the people will demand a breathing spell, a time to grow accustomed to the changes that have been made in the last few years.

Not a single New Deal objective was repudiated in the election. In fact, the election marks the final acceptance, by both parties, of the major objectives of the Roosevelt administration. The new young Republicans who have come forward, as a result of Tuesday's record are men who have accepted the aims of the New Deal. The old rule-or-ruin crowd is gone. Men like Taft in Ohio and Dewey in New York would not undo a major act of the administration. . . . This victory would have seemed like a defeat to the Republican high command of 1934. It involves many concessions to the enemy. Nevertheless, the Republicans have had a resounding success. The New Deal has received notice from the people to take things easy, to listen to the moderates for the time being, to attempt economy. The 1940 chances of the Left Wing New Dealers, such as Harry Hopkins, have been reduced almost to zero. The voters have turned thumbs down on everything which can loosely be called "radicalism"—such as the CIO in Michigan politics, and the La Follette effort at a third party.

Finally, it will have to be admitted that the WPA is not so much of a political power after all. . . . Ernest K. Lindley (pro-New Deal) Washington Post.—The revival of the Republican party automatically presses together the Democratic party. The Democrats can no longer afford to quarrel so violently. In preparation for 1940 both the President and the more conservative Democrats become more important to each other.

BANK SEEKS RELEASE ON INSURANCE CLAIM

Asks Court for Ruling Validating Payment of $390,768 From Disputed Fund.

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 11.—The Central Missouri Trust Co. of Jefferson City asked the Cole County Circuit Court yesterday for a decree declaring that the bank had acted rightly in paying $390,768 out of $2,761,000 in insurance funds deposited with it.

The funds represent excess premiums paid by policy holders in the 10 per cent fire insurance rate reduction case and were awarded in full to the policy holders by a State Supreme Court decision last April. The Supreme Court ruled that the Cole County Circuit Court, which had deposited the funds in the Central Missouri Trust Co., had no jurisdiction over them and that its actions with respect to the money were void.

The bank asserted in its petition for the decree, however, that it had no reason to believe the Cole County Circuit Court was without jurisdiction and explained it had paid out the $390,768 when checks were presented. The $390,768 represented refunds to policy holders; fees paid to L. H. Cook and H. P. Law, Jefferson City attorneys who were custodians and commissioners of the fund, and their counsel, Gilbert H. Lamb of Salisbury, and expenses incurred by the custodians.

The bank asked that the decree be directed to George A. S. Robertson State Superintendent of Insurance. The Supreme Court ruled Robertson had jurisdiction of the fund.

Under the reopening plan the money will come from four sources: $38,000 from real estate tax distribution, on or before Nov. 12; $112,000 from tangible personal property taxes, Nov. 29; $32,483 reimbursement by the State for local teaching of handicapped children; and $247,745 for the State School Foundation fund. A two-mill school tax was defeated Tuesday.

DAYTON SCHOOLS TO REOPEN NOV. 21; $430,000 AVAILABLE

Board Changes Stand After 3-Mill Tax Is Defeated in Election.
By the Associated Press.
DAYTON, O., Nov. 11.—The Dayton Board of Education voted last night to reopen the city's schools, closed since Oct. 28 because of a financial crisis, Monday, Nov. 21, on the basis of a report that $430,000 could be made available for operations. Only one of the seven-member board voted against, resuming classes for the city's 34,000 pupils and 1000 teachers. He was Otterbein Cramer, an advocate of a "pay-as-you-go" policy. Superintendent Emerson Landis immediately announced that school athletic officials would meet today to resume the cancelled football schedules and other athletic activities.

SHAKEUP IN FEDERAL BUREAUS URGED BY SENATOR CLARK

"Jobholders Never Let Go," He Tells Ohio Chamber of Commerce Meeting.
By the Associated Press.
AKRON, O., Nov. 11.—United States Senator Bennett Champ Clark addressed the Ohio Chamber of Commerce's annual meeting on the evils of bureaucracy, last night and urged a reorganization of Federal bureaus in the interest of economy and efficiency. "I don't mean the kind of reorganization set up in the bill we defeated," he said.

Clark declared "job holders never let go—some of the bureaus maintain their own lobby in an attempt to increase their appropriations and jurisdictions, in direct violation of Federal statutes." Gov. Martin L. Davey, in his first public speech since his defeat in the Democratic primary, said that "unless the Democrats wake up and quit listening to radicals and nuts, the Democratic nomination for President in 1940 won't be worth much."

"We have given this country legislative indigestion. The American people want to be let alone to re-adjust themselves. They're feeling expressed itself last Tuesday." . . . Gangster Dalhove Denied Stay. CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Rhucl James Dalhove, Brady gangster, sentenced to die in the electric chair in the Indiana State penitentiary Nov. 13 for the murder of a State Highway policeman, was denied a stay by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday. Dalhove's attorneys asked for the continuance to enable them to petition President Roosevelt for executive clemency.

INONU TURKEY'S NEW PRESIDENT; ATATURK'S FRIEND

General, Premier for 13 Years and Former Chief of Staff, Elected by National Assembly.

By the Associated Press.

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 11.—Gen. Ismet Inonu was elected by the National Assembly today to succeed his late friend and long-time comrade, Kamal Ataturk, as President of Turkey.

Ataturk, who died yesterday, once said of Inonu—a reformer and strong man in his own right—that "he is my conscience—he is always on the alert and finds out what is wrong and criticizes me."

The new leader, known as the "military bookkeeper," was Premier for 13 of the 15 years that Ataturk was head of the state.

The strong-willed, little Pasha was chosen at an extraordinary session of Parliament sitting in Ankara, Ataturk's self-made capital.

A salute of 101 guns signalled the election, a little more than 36 hours after the "Gray Wolf" died in Dikma Bayteke Palace at Istanbul of cirrhosis of the liver.

The Cabinet arranged to resign immediately but it was expected to be reconstituted with the same members.

Carried Out Many Reforms. Ataturk relied on Inonu to carry out most of the revolutionary reforms by which he roused the Ottoman empire from its sleep of centuries and forged a potent, Westernized power.

It was Inonu who abolished the Caliphate, closed the religious schools and monasteries and forced Turks to doff their fezzes and wear hats.

The new President is an able soldier, a talented diplomat and a stern ruler—all in the pattern of his predecessor. He has a passion for order.

Inonu emerged from relative eclipse to become President. He resigned as Premier in 1937. Ostensibly he quit the Cabinet because of ill health due to overwork. There had been insistent reports, however, of differences of opinion between the President and Inonu.

Ataturk, it was understood, blamed Inonu partly for having acted too moderately toward the Fascist powers at the Nyon anti-piracy conference. Some sources hinted that Ataturk considered Turkey mature enough for more democratic rule and that iron-fisted Inonu opposed such reforms.

Before Inonu took his present name by decree in 1934 he was famed as Ismet Pasha, chief of staff against the Greeks in Anatolia, Undersecretary of War during the World War and Chief of the Turkish Delegations at the Lausanne Conference.

When the republic was proclaimed, he became Premier. Besides his policy of compulsory westernization, Inonu promoted the building of railroads and labored for Turkish security.

He gave Turkey an army well-equipped with modern armaments and a powerful air force.

He ringed Turkey with a group of friends—through understandings with the Balkan entente (Rumania, Yugoslavia and Greece) and through the "co-operation unit" Turkey formed with Afghanistan, Iraq and Iran.

Although he shared with Ataturk an enthusiasm for order, Inonu has no taste for the high living the former President loved.

The new President is an indefatigable worker, with little concern for social activities. He spends much time with his young wife and three children, rides horseback and plays golf.

He is slightly deaf and his deafness always has been an asset in his diplomatic work. Many delegates suspected at Lausanne that Inonu's hearing became unusually bad at convenient times.

Small, quiet, swarthy and well-groomed, he speaks fluent French and German with less ease, but knows little English.

He was born in Smyrna 55 years ago and educated in the military schools of Turkey.

Folios Precautions. Gen. Inonu is popular in Turkey and has the support of the parliamentary group of the majority party. But police patrols were reinforced and other precautionary measures taken as the nation was settling the problem of what happens when a strong man relinquishes the helm.

It was unofficially understood Ataturk's funeral would be next Wednesday or Thursday.

A group of National Assembly members supported a plan to change the name of Ankara to Ataturk to perpetuate the memory of the "father of the Turks."

The Government issued a communique consecrating the nation to carry on the "existing order" established by Ataturk. Public entertainments were closed.

Salih Boyuk, member of the National Assembly and boydguard and friend of Ataturk, attempted suicide because of grief. He was taken to a hospital with serious wounds.

ROOSEVELT SENDS SYMPATHY OVER KAMAL ATATURK DEATH

Says President's "Devotion to Country Won Respect of Entire World."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—President Roosevelt expressed today the sympathy of the American people over the death of Kamal Ataturk, President of Turkey.

"I have learned with sincere sorrow of the death of His Excellency, Kamal Ataturk, the President of the Turkish republic, whose devotion to his country won for him the respect of the entire world. The American people join with me in an expression of the deepest sympathy in the passing of His Excellency."

Secretary of State Hull telegraphed his sincere sympathy to Dr. Tevfik Rustu Aras, Turkish Foreign Minister. He characterized Ataturk as "a great leader and a distinguished statesman who did so much in cementing the true friendship which exists between our countries."

Dead Man's Absentee Vote Counted.

PENN. YAN, N. Y., Nov. 11.—A dead man's vote was counted in last Tuesday's Yates County returns, election officers said last night.

The vote was the absentee ballot mailed by Ellsworth Meade, 65-year-old Civil War veteran from Battle Creek, Mich., before he died Monday.

FIVE MISSOURI COUNTIES VOTE FOR TAX ON DOGS

Money to Be Used for Payment of Farmers Whose Stock Is Killed by Animals.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 11.—Five North-Central Missouri counties—Boone, Chariton, Grundy, Howard and Monroe—voted in favor of a dog tax under the new county option law Tuesday. Two other counties, Callaway and Randolph, rejected the measure. The vote in Cooper and Livingston counties will not be tabulated until the official canvass. Under the law, dog taxes are placed in a fund from which farmers are paid for animals killed by dogs. The Columbia City Council voted recently to repeal the city tax if Boone County adopted the dog levy.

INDIANA REPUBLICANS TO SEEK A RECOUNT

Demand Inquiry in Five Counties After Returns Give Van Nuys 6535 Plurality.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 11.—Indiana Republican leaders planned today to ask for a recount of votes for the United States Senate as returns from Tuesday's election showed Senator Frederick Van Nuys, Democrat, kept his seat by a plurality of 6535 over Raymond E. Willis.

The full unofficial count from the State's 3872 precincts in 92 counties gave Van Nuys 784,156 ballots and the Republican candidate 777,620.

Arch N. Bobbitt, State chairman, said a recount would be sought in five industrial and mining counties, four of them among the most populous in the State. The counties are Vigo, with Terre Haute; Marion, with Indianapolis; Lake, with Gary and Hammond; Vanderburgh, with Evansville and Sullivan; and Vigo and Sullivan are in the coal mining belt.

The State chairman said personal investigation had given him "reason to believe" a recount would be justified.

The five counties gave Van Nuys a plurality of 40,477 out of a total vote of 409,219. Returns from Vigo County were slower than from other Metropolitan sections. The last precincts reported last night.

Willis himself, 63 years old, and publisher of a newspaper at Angola, refused to concede the 64-year-old Indianapolis lawyer's re-election. Van Nuys ousted the veteran James E. Watson, Republican, from the Senate by more than 200,000 votes in 1932.

Legal advisers to the Republican State Committee were to confer with State candidates today as the party mapped its course of action.

Republicans were elected to seven of Indiana's 12 seats in the House of Representatives; the Republicans gained control of the lower house of the State Legislature for the first time in 10 years, the Senate staying Democratic, and elected Mayors in 71 of 99 cities heard from, or 11 more than in the last election.

Outcome of contests for State offices still was in doubt. James M. Tucker, young Republican leader, led Edward D. Koenemann, Democrat, for Secretary of State by 577 votes on the basis of 3844 precincts. Willis' count was 765,943.

A. F. of L. Proposes Program To Maintain Mass Production On Basis of the Nation's Needs

Suggests Board Representing Workers, Capital, Distributors, Consumers and Government to Develop It—New Theory of Wages.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Creation of a commission to make a thorough-going study of the nation's consuming needs from which a program could be developed to get the necessary goods produced under democratic methods was advocated today by the American Federation of Labor in its monthly survey of business.

"Such a program," the report said, "developed by a commission composed of representatives of owners, management and labor concerned in production and distribution, consumers and Government representatives, and served by technicians, would conserve the interest of all groups and thus make possible sustained mass production with higher standards of living for all."

The report declared that such a survey and program "would give private business an opportunity to raise production rapidly with assurance of reasonable profit."

$4000 Family Income.

Asserting that American economy can achieve a $4000 income for every family, but warning that there is no "get-rich-quick" way of doing this, the Federation economists added:

"No large industrial concern would approach a year's work without a plan of action. Yet our efforts as a nation to produce for our people is haphazard and subject to the whims of millions. The power age has driven European countries to programs of production, and they have adopted Fascism or Communism. We need to establish a plan of action under democracy before unending depression drives us to un-American methods."

Government control of industry and finance, the report asserted, is here to stay "and business men who are holding back production to wait for the freedom of pre-depression days are rebelling against the inevitable."

No Free Market.

Continuing the report said: "Power production makes regulation essential. For it requires huge concentration of capital, and has enabled powerful groups to set up controls which fix prices so that a free market no longer exists. This economic law cannot operate to prevent undue price increases and exorbitant living costs. Control is inevitable; the question is: Shall it be control by Government in the interest of all, or by powerful groups for their own interests?"

"Under the New Deal many important controls have already been set up, making advances in our adjustment to the power age. This theory on the stock market is being checked; control by anti-union employers over labor's right to organize has been lessened; we have begun to provide security against seasonal employment and old age; other controls also are protecting the interest of working men and women."

"These measures are steps forward, but these alone are not enough to lift production to maximum levels. In 1936-37 we fell short of maximum production by 40 per cent, and nine-tenths of our population lived on incomes of less than $3000 a year. Maximum production rightly distributed means an income of over $4000 for every family, with higher incomes for those in more responsible positions."

New Basis of Wages.

In addition to establishing a commission for developing a program after making a national survey of possible consumption, the Federation said that three other steps would have to be taken: (1) Implanting a conception of wages based on the producing power of machines rather than on a workman's individual effort; (2) Adoption of some form of partnership wage which shares excess income equitably between management, workers and investors; and (3) Recognition of workers as consumers, so that the best quality of goods will be sold at the lowest possible price.

Noting that business has swung back to a vigorous upward trend after the war scares of September, the report declared that union officers should be alert to press for wage increases.

Gains in Employment.

"Employment gains," the report said, "have sent 1,000,000 back to work since the May-June low point, and it is likely that from 300,000 to 500,000 more returned in October. These gains have added millions of dollars to workers' buying power, and the figures of the United States Department of Agriculture show an increase of $102,000,000 in total monthly income of farm workers since June. Inventories of retail stores now seem to be about at rock bottom levels, and increased workers' buying is bringing immediate re-orders of goods from manufacturers."

"Because the automobile and building industries are leading the recovery, the demand for heavy goods, such as steel and lumber, is increasing along with the demand for consumers' goods, making this a well balanced and general recovery."

"Sales of 1938 automobile models have exceeded expectations and production schedules have been stepped up. Building the first half of October was 37 per cent above last year, public works were up 127 per cent, residential building 61 per cent, and it is significant that industrial and commercial building are increasing. Some firms are already resuming their programs of expansion which were postponed last fall."

"Government efforts to stimulate expansion by public utilities have brought results and electric companies in the East and Midwest have announced that they will place immediate orders for 1,000,000 kilowatts of generating capacity. Steel operations at 87 per cent of capacity are about at the profit-making point."

"If union members are to share these gains, officers must be alert to press for wage increases as soon as business improvement warrants."

UPTON SINCLAIR URGES ADOPTION OF EPIC PLAN

Calls on California Voters to Use Pressure on New Governor for Proposal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—Californians were urged yesterday by former Socialist Upton Sinclair, who ran unsuccessfully for Governor in the 1934 Epic Democratic ticket, to press Governor-elect C. L. Olson for adoption of the "end poverty" program.

Sinclair made his statement after the Democratic Governor-elect announced his "social New Deal" for California would involve partial State financing for "production for use."

Olson was elected to the State Senate four years ago on Sinclair's ticket.

Final tabulations of returns added to margins of Olson and the Democratic Senator-elect Sheridan Downey over their Republican opponents, Gov. Merriam and Philip Bancroft.

In 12,079 out of 12,472 precincts Olson polled 1,384,591 and Merriam 1,121,965.

Downey got 1,320,415 and Bancroft, 1,077,567 in 12,068 precincts. Other results showed the Republicans doubled their number of places in California's congressional delegation by electing eight of their candidates.

MORE WRITERS GIVE CLARK A CHANCE IN '40

Washington Correspondents
Call Him Middle-of-Road Presidential Possibility.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
201-206 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. — Several Washington political writers commented today on Senator Bennett Champ Clark's chances for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940.

J. Fred Essary, chief of the Washington bureau of the Baltimore Sun (Ind.-Dem.), after pointing out that Senator-elect Robert A. Taft of Ohio had displaced Thomas E. Dewey of New York as the present hope of the Republicans, observed: "In the matter of background, Mr. Taft has a counterpart in Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri, whose father, the late Champ Clark, was Speaker of the House the last two years William H. Taft was in the White House."

"Senator Clark had a triumphant ride for re-election. He first beat down all primary opposition at home and overcame the handicap that he was out of sympathy with much of the New Deal program."

"And on Tuesday he swept his State. He is today, perhaps, the most-talked-of Democrat in the party wherever there is speculation as to the successor to Mr. Roosevelt as Democratic leader."

"It so happens that Senator Clark is enough of a New Dealer that he never broke with the President, but enough of an independent in thought and in his voting record that his fellow-Democratic independents are his firm admirers."

Albert L. Warner, chief of the New York Herald Tribune (Ind. Rep.), Washington Bureau, wrote: "The election hurt several Democratic possibilities for a presidential nomination, including Gov. Murphy of Michigan, Gov. Earle, who was beaten in Pennsylvania in his race for Senator; Paul V. McNutt, former Governor of Indiana, where the Democrats made a poor showing, and Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Agriculture, whose policies the farm belt spurned. In the conservative swing New Dealers generally lost ground. On the other hand, Senators Bennett Champ Clark, in Missouri, and Millard E. Tydings, in Maryland, made excellent runs, the latter setting an all-time record in his State. The President dislikes Mr. Tydings and has no enthusiasm for Mr. Clark."

G. Gould Lincoln, political writer for the Washington Star (Ind.), said:

"The elections, while dimming the hopes of some of the Democratic aspirants for presidential honors in 1940, proved a build-up for Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri."

The Associated Press political correspondent wrote:

"As to the effect of the elections on Democratic presidential possibilities, some speculated that the reverses suffered by the New Deal may have diminished the chances of Senator Barkley of Kentucky, New Deal supporter, although he was re-elected. Those who held this opinion suggested that Senator Clark of Missouri, considered to be a conservative or 'middle-of-the-road' Democratic possibility, had by his victory taken a long stride toward the position of a compromise 1940 party choice."

The United Press, in an unsigned dispatch, after commenting that the result in Indiana was a set-back to the McNutt-for-President boom, continued:

"But the stock of Senator Clark took a sharp rise. Mentioned as a presidential possibility by conservative and middle-of-the-road Democrats, he was returned by a majority more substantial than those given Democratic senatorial candidates in 1936, high-water mark of the New Deal tide."

PRINCE, IN U. S., TELLS ABOUT SIAM'S NEW STYLE EXECUTION

Prisoner Stands Behind Screen on Which Target Is Placed for Machine Gunners.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. — Prince Chalermbol of Siam spoke enthusiastically today of Siam's method of executing its few murderers, arsonists and traitors.

"The prisoner stands behind a screen on which a target is placed about the position of his heart," he related in English acquired at Eton and Sandhurst. "This makes it easier for the man with the machine gun. He does not have to see it. It is more humane than cutting off the head as we did until three years ago."

He arrived from Europe yesterday on a round-the-world study of police organization methods.

He said Siam is without holdups because of the Government restriction on firearms. However, the police earn their $15 monthly pay fighting cattle rustlers and catching petty thieves.

Police are required to be courteous at all times and not to shoot unless they are shot at.

SENATOR GILLETTE'S LEAD OVER DICKINSON NOW 2324

Minor Changes Made in Tabulations for Close Iowa Contest.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 11. — Only fragmentary changes were made in the Associated Press' unofficial tabulations of the close Iowa senatorial election as final mail returns were checked today in 80 of the State's 99 counties.

On the basis of these returns Democratic Senator Guy M. Gillette held a lead of 2324 votes over former Senator L. J. Dickinson, Republican. Total votes: Gillette, 412,769; Dickinson, 410,435.

SHANAHAN COMPLAINED ABOUT COUSINS, WITNESS TESTIFIES

Friend Says Legislator Told Him "They're Robbing Me," Referring to $80,000 Sum.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—A business associate and friend of David E. Shanahan, Illinois Legislator, related yesterday that three months before Shanahan's death the legislator accused the cousins now seeking a share of his estate of "robbing" him.

Jacob Sensibar, a witness in the suit to break a will leaving Shanahan's $850,000 estate to his widow, Helen Troesch Shanahan, said that in August, 1936, he visited Shanahan in the hospital. He found the sick man excited and angry.

"He grabbed my arm, clenched it and cried, 'they're robbing me,'" Sensibar testified. "I asked him 'who' and he cried the women, the women—the buzzards. When I asked him 'what women,' Shanahan said 'the Flynns, you get that money back for me.'"

Two of the legislator's cousins, Miss Margaret and Miss Mary Flynn, are suing to invalidate the deathbed marriage of Shanahan and his secretary, alleging he was mentally incompetent to make such contracts 18 days before his death on Oct. 18, 1936. The Flynns were beneficiaries in a prior will. Sensibar said the money Shanahan referred to was $80,000 withdrawn from Shanahan's safety deposit box by Miss Mary Flynn.

HARDSHIPS OF BUSINESS MEN

Kansas City Club Members Climb Stairs During Strike.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 11. — W. C. Potter, chairman of the board of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, was a guest yesterday of 40 prominent business men in the exclusive Kansas City Club.

They climbed four floors of stairs lighted dimly by candles, and ate by candlelight, a dinner prepared and served by the club's printer, auditor, cigar clerks and busboys. A strike of three A. F. of L. unions shut down the club's private power plant and left its dining room without waiters or bartenders. Union spokesmen said the club had violated an oral agreement to unionize and had cut wages.

This Amount Ready for

 States in Order to Assure 57 Cents a Bushel.

 MARKET PRICE

Smaller Loans to Be Made Outside Indicated Area—Compliance With Crop Program a Requisite.

By the Associated Press.
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The Agriculture Adjustment Administration prepared today to lend to midwestern farmers about $170-000,000 in order to assure them 57 cents a bushel on the 1938 corn crop. This is about 20 cents more than the market price on the farm.

Farmers who have complied with the crop control program are eligible for loans.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announced that corn produced in the commercial corn belt and withheld from the market could be stored on farms under a 57-cent loan. A 50-cent loan was made on last year's crop.

The crop reporting board estimated the 1938 production at 2-480,968,000 bushels, compared with 2,644,966,000 last year and an average of 2,306,187,000 during the 1927-36 period.

Consumption Estimate.
 The law calls for a loan of 70 per cent of the parity price—now about 81 cents—if the November estimate exceeds a normal year's domestic consumption and export needs by not more than 10 per cent. Wallace estimated such consumption and export needs at 2,218,000,000 bushels.

Prices of corn on farms were as low as 33 cents in Iowa and Minnesota and 35 cents in Illinois Oct.
 15. Officials estimated that 300-000,000 bushels would be stored under the loan plan, requiring a Federal outlay of about $170,000,000.
 Whether the Government will lose money depends on the price of corn when the loan expires in one year.

Options for Farmer.
 Should market prices be below
 the loan, borrowers could surrender the grain as full payment of principal and interest. If prices are above the loan, the farmers could pay the debt and interest and sell at a profit. At present the Government has outstanding more than $400,000,000 on farm commodities, mostly cotton.

Compelling farmers also will receive benefit payments of 10 cents a bushel on the normal production of acreage allotments.

The commercial area where the loan will be made includes 566 counties in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota,
 South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas and Kentucky.

Loans of 43 cents a bushel will be made to farmers outside the commercial area who did not exceed their 1938 soil-depleting acreage allotments.

Effect of Warm Weather.
 The crop board reported that abnormally warm, dry weather in October favored the harvesting of corn, soy beans, beans and other late crops, but impeded fall seedings and some winter grains already planted. It said the weather caused a rapid decline in the condition of pasture in a large area extending from the Gulf of Mexico northward to Western Kansas, Southern Illinois, Central Michigan, and Western Pennsylvania.

The board said the national corn yield average 26.9 bushels an acre, compared with 28.2 last year and yields ranging from 15.8 to 26.6 the preceding 10 years.

The only other crop estimate changes from a month ago, were a 4 per cent increase in beans, 2 per cent increase in sugar beets and flaxseed, increase of about 1 per cent in peanuts, 9 per cent decrease in buckwheat, 4 per cent decrease in grain sorghums, 3 per cent decrease in pecans and decreases of 1 per cent in tobacco and potatoes.

Missouri Corn Estimate 13 Pot. Below 10-Year Average.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 11. — A 102,900,000-bushel Missouri corn crop, 12 per cent below the last 10-year average despite a four bushel increase in estimated yield per acre, was predicted yesterday by Thomas C. M. Robinson, assistant agricultural statistician for the state.

The estimate predicted a yield of 24.5 bushels an acre, or 2.5 bushels below 1937. Warm weather in October dried ears early, permitting much picking, Robinson said.

The soy bean estimate of 680-500 bushels was smaller than for any crop from 1928 to 1935, although the average acre yield of 10.3 bushels was the highest on record.

A grain sorghum production of 4,125,000 bushels was predicted on a basis of 15 bushels to the acre.
 The forage yield of both grain and sweet sorghums was above average.

The cowpea yield of 8.5 bushels an acre was the highest since 1931, but the total crop was predicted as the smallest on record.

The October decline of pastures was the greatest on record due to dry weather. Milk production fell more than seasonably.

BURGLAR ARRESTED IN STORE

Youth Captured by Police in Grocery at 5387 Union. A 19-year-old youth was arrested in a grocery at 5387 Union boulevard early today, after Mrs. Stella Shirley, who lives in an apartment over the store, called to a passerby that she had heard voices in the place and asked him to call police. After the youth had been forced to crawl out the small window through which he had entered the store, policemen broke open a door to search for another robber. None was found. Detectives said they found 50 cents taken from the cash register in the young man's pocket.

ARGENTINA ASKS U. S. ABOUT TRADE PLANS

Wants to Know if Wheat Markets in South America Are Sought.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Agriculture Department officials remained silent today on reports the United States is seeking South American wheat markets normally supplied by Argentina. Questions on this country's grain exporting plans were raised twice yesterday—once by Ambassador Felipe Esplá of Argentina at a conference with Secretary of State Hull, and later by reporters at a conference with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. Hull would not comment and all Wallace would say was he thought the United States should do all within its power to "promote unity" in the Western hemisphere. Wallace disclosed that he had discussed the matter with State Department officials but declined to elaborate. Apprehension that the United States might attempt to place a part of its export goal of 100,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat in Brazil and other South American countries which import wheat developed after an American grain dealer sailed for Brazil to investigate marketing possibilities. The dealer, Frank Theis of Kansas City, Mo., conferred with Agriculture Department officials before he left. He formerly was associated with the department. Although Wallace declined to discuss the possibility, his assistants discounted reports the United States would participate in a barter scheme by which American wheat would be exchanged for Brazilian coffee.

DYNAMITE SET OFF IN BELFAST DURING ARMISTICE DAY SILENCE

Explosions Reported to Be Republican Protest Against Celebration. BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Nov. 11.—Explosions of dynamite broke the usual two minutes of silence at Belfast's Armistice Day ceremonies today. No one was injured and the damage was confined to wrecking of the walls in which the dynamite was set off. The explosions are reported to have been a Republican protest against the Armistice Day celebration.

UNLICENSED EMBALMER FINED

Arthur Smith, 4515 McPherson avenue, an undertaking company employee, was fined $100 by Judge James W. Griffin in the Court of Criminal Correction yesterday on a charge of embalming without a license. He admitted performing the work June 8, explaining that he had made preparations for taking out a license as an embalmer and completed the embalming with a licensed man supervising. His attorney told the court that Smith "went too far."

THE GREAT WALTZ
FILLED WITH GAIETY

Picture Based on Life and Waltzes of Johann Strauss Pleases Loew's Patrons.

By COLVIN McPHERSON.

Although the screen production of "The Great Waltz," which is almost nothing from its predecessor other than the name of Johann Strauss, the change is all for the better. The film is much livelier, much better than any of the stage versions in St. Louis and has been directed in a highly skilled manner by Julien Duvivier, an artist new to Hollywood.

Vienna, the setting of "The Great Waltz," has been made gay times in the past but the policy heretofore has seemed to come from the rocco character of the city, the luxuriance of costumes and the sparkle of glass chandliers. In "The Great Waltz," however, a Frenchman, has made Vienna spring from the ebullient spirit of the populace itself. His manner is entirely Continental.

The whole capital seems to be on the lookout for a good time, has a kindly tolerance and a fine fellowship even in the revolution of 1848, which is leaved into the action. At the same time, Duvivier has given the characters something of the harum-scarum qualities of young people of today. The members of Strauss' orchestra are as versatile in clowning and other kinds of performances as those in Fred Waring's ensemble, the waltz-ing is furious enough on occasions to wear out a jitterbug.

The stars are Fernand Gravet, who plays Strauss, the waltz king;
Liane Rainer, who is his wife, and Milla Rainer, as an opera singer and "the other woman." Strauss marries but can't remain constant.
The prima donna inspires him to compose magnificent waltzes but ultimately gives him back to his wife. That is the story.

A foreword to the film says it is "dramatized the spirit rather than the facts" of Strauss' life. By judgment of spirit, there can be no complaint with the film. It reels along gracefully from one great waltz to another. "Artist's Life," "Tales from the Vienna Woods," "Die Fledermaus" and the famous "Blue Danube" are introduced in novel and refreshing ways.

Gravet's accomplishment as Strauss is almost flawless. Miss Rainer weeps and rolls her eyes in her usual, but expressively pathetic, manner. Miss Rainer, a kind of Mae West with the voice of Lily Pons, gets along very well without creating a sensation. And she is allowed to trill far too much, I am afraid, for the average movie audience.

"The Great Waltz" still has to be taken in a leisurely manner and without too much expectation of action. It is, however, very substantial entertainment.

With it, Loew's offers a racketsmashing melodrama, "Crime Takes a Holiday," in which Jack Holt works wonders against lawlessness in the big city. The capture of the gang leader is treated as a new and stimulating manner.

ROOSEVELT CALLS ON NATION TO GIVE TO THE RED CROSS

Every Year There Seems to Be Greater Demand for Services of Organization.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—President Roosevelt called on the nation last night to help finance "ever increasing" demands of the Red Cross.

He said in a statement on the eve of the annual Red Cross roll call that the agency always was ready to answer emergencies wherever they arise.

"In order that we may continue to rely upon this great institution of mercy to serve suffering humanity in our name, we must all do our part when the Red Cross calls upon us," he said.

"Each year there seems to be ever increasing demands for Red Cross service, both at home and abroad. We have learned through the years that these calls are never in vain."

tion until the official canvass is made.

FOUR WOMEN REPRESENTATIVES

Two Democrats and Two Republicans in Next Congress.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The House will have four women members next session, one less than in the last Congress.

Only two of four Democratic Congresswomen were re-elected in Tuesday's election, Representative Mary T. Norton, New Jersey, and Representative Caroline O'Day, New York. Representatives Virginia
Jenckes, Indiana, and Nan Wood Honeyman, Oregon, were defeated.
On the Republican side, Representative Edith Nourse Rogers, Massachusetts, will be joined by Miss Jessie Sumner, 38-year-old County Judge from Milford, Ill.

SCHOOL THIEF CHIDES FACULTY

Finds No Valuables, Criticizes
"Lack of Trust" in Note.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Nov. 11.—
A burglar who ransacked a grade school left no doubt of his disappointment at finding only a few pennies, and some fruit which had been presented to teachers.

He wrote a note on a blackboard chiding members of the school's staff for being so "lacking in trust" that they left no valuables lying around.

20 ARABS REPORTED KILLED IN FIGHTING WITH BRITISH

Usual Armistice Day Ceremonies Called Off in Palestine Because of Strife.

By the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, Nov. 11.—British army units fought a battle against Arab rebels today at Beit Fekir, near Nablus.

Twenty of the rebels were reported killed.

Other operations were conducted on the Jericho road, near Bethany.
British Air Force planes thundered over the road where, according to the Gospel of Luke, the Good Samaritan ministered to the pilgrim.
Relative and friends of Britain's World War dead went to cemeteries to decorate the graves, but the usual public Armistice day ceremonies were cancelled owing to the troubled state of Palestine.

Marie of Yugoslavia Operated On.
BELGRADE, Nov. 11.—Queen Marie of Yugoslavia, widow of the assassinated King Alexander, was reported in the capital yesterday to have undergone an operation in Zurich, Switzerland, for appendicitis and gallstones. The mother of King Peter II has been ill for a long time. Her condition after the operation was described as satisfactory. She is 58 years old.

CHILD WIFE ORDERED TO STAY WITH PARENTS FOUR YEARS

Girl, 12, Who Expected to Be a Mother, May Annul Marriage Within That Time if She Wishes.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Mrs. Jennie Rota, 12 years old, was ordered by the Juvenile Court yesterday to remain with her parents for the next four years.

The girl was married to Frank Rota, 24, in Valparaiso, Ind., last
Aug. 30, and is to become a mother.

When the marriage became known, Rota was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

As a solution to the problem,
Judge Frank E. Block proposed that the child live with her parents until she reaches the age of 16. If before that time she wishes the marriage dissolved, the court authorized institution of annulment proceedings. The parents will care for the child.

COMMITTEE FINDS RED ACTIVITY IN KANSAS U.

But Makes No Recommendations for Combating Communism or Fascism.

By the Associated Press.
TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 11.—A committee of the State Board of Regents said yesterday it was convinced there has been, and is now, some Communist and probably some Fascist activity among the students at the University of Kansas.

The report, submitted by Dr. H. L. Snyder and Ralph T. O'Neill, members of the board, made no recommendations for eliminating or combating the alleged movements. The investigation was ordered by the board nearly a year ago, after the death of Don Henry, former student who was killed when fighting with the Loyalist army in Spain.

The committee reported that it did not believe these activities are present at the University of Kansas "to any greater degree than in other large universities."

"Since the appointment of this committee," the report stated, "some changes have been made at the university, eliminating certain of the personnel which we believe will minimize un-American activities. The evidence discloses there was less Communist activity in the school year 1936-37 than in either of the two preceding years."

No Evidence Against Faculty.
No evidence was found, the committee said, to show that any faculty member had exceeded his authority in teaching theories of government, or that any faculty member is "affiliated directly with any leftist organization."

The committee reported, however, that during Henry's first year at the university "numerous editorials were published in the Daily Kansan on the Spanish situation, extolling the cause of the Loyalists, also called Red forces."

"It is common knowledge of the Communist support and participation with Spanish Loyalists. These highly partisan editorials and reported addresses by faculty members and outside speakers held the Loyalist stand to be the crucial battle for democracy in Europe."

"We are unable to find evidence presented to the student body of an equal amount of information on the other side of this most question."

Reporting specifically on Henry's case, the committee stated: "Don Henry, when he came to Kansas University, was a religious boy with a normal outlook. Evidence by reputable citizens of Dodge City proved to the committee's satisfaction that he had no Communist tendencies; he was a Boy Scout, interested in patriotic and religious activities."

"He immediately affiliated with the Y. M. C. A. and shortly became a member of its cabinet. The chancellor's report says the Y. M. C. A. was at that time dominated by a leftist group."

"There was at Kansas University a young Communist league operating secretly behind various fronts. Evidence shows that in the spring of his first year he joined the Young Communist League."

"The Young Communist League held meetings and was addressed by Communist organizers."

"Don Henry became president of the American Student Union as his designated function in the Young Communist League. He was very active in left wing peace movements and the Y. M. C. A. The American Student Union was formed Dec. 29, 1935, being a national merger of the Communist National Student League and the Socialist Student League for Industrial Democracy."

"Don Henry became interested in the Red cause in Spain. He was furnished money, through Communist sources, to go to Spain. He went to Spain. He was mortally wounded on his first day at the front."

The committee said that in its investigation it had "entire co-operation of the university authorities."

WARDEN'S AID, SHOT IN BREAK, LIES IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Deputy One of Victims of Fight at Nashville, Tenn.; Convict Killed.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 11.—Deputy Warden C. C. Woods of Tennessee's main penitentiary remained in a serious condition today, the victim of a prison escape fight in which one convict was killed and five others were shot yesterday.

Two guards, kidnapped along with Woods and forced to accompany the fugitives, were wounded less seriously. City, county and State police and prison officers captured the prisoners less than an hour after they sped through the penitentiary gates in a commandeered truck.

Woods, paralyzed from the waist down by a bullet that entered his back, also was shot in the forehead and arm.

A formal investigation into the break is planned by a board appointed by Institutions Commissioner George H. Cate.

CUBA'S "STRONG MAN" GUEST IN WASHINGTON

Col. Batista Arrives With Fanfare, Visits Officials—Takes Part in Armistice Day.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Col. Fulgencio Batista, called the "strong man" of Cuba, discussed with Government officials yesterday relations between his country and the United States.

Batista, who is chief of the Cuban Army, called at the State and War Departments. Afterwards, he told reporters that elections probably would be called in his country next May to pave the way for a new constitutional convention and fix the date of the next presidential elections.

"My visit," he said, "is simply one of courtesy. However, if the opportunity arrives to discuss matters mutually advantageous to both our countries, I will welcome it."

Batista arrived yesterday with much fanfare at the invitation of Gen. Malin Craig, chief of staff. He will participate in the Armistice Day ceremony today in Arlington National Cemetery. His visit is for three days.

Batista has played a major role in Cuban affairs since the fall of President Gerardo Machado in 1933. He led the celebrated "Sergeants' Revolt" which ousted regular army officers.

WOMAN FIRES ON ROBBERS, CHASES THEM IN AUTOMOBILE

Proprietor of Cafe at Belleville Loses Pair, Suspected of Three Other Holdups.
Mrs. Florence Springer, proprietor of Amlung's Cafe on the outskirts of Belleville, fired shots at two robbers as they drove away from her place yesterday, after they had taken $46 in a holdup. Her shots went wild, so she gave chase in her automobile, but lost the robbers after a pursuit of about a mile. Deputy Sheriffs, checking her description of the robbers, learned they had obtained $246 in three other holdups shortly before they entered the Belleville restaurant. Beginning early yesterday morning, the two locked Robert Whitson in the rear room of his filling station at Carlyle, Ill., and took $25 from the cash register. Calling next at the Royal Tavern at Carlyle, they held up the bartender and two customers, and took $150 and an overcoat belonging to one of the customers. Later, Homer Benninger, 3040 Lexington avenue was robbed of $71, by the two when he stopped his car on Illinois Highway 13, about three miles east of Marissa.

America's Stake in a Redistribution of Colonies

Normal negotiations are, it would seem, already in progress toward a redistribution of the world's colonies. Now the United States has not the slightest interest in African colonies as such, and will not wish to have anything to say about what the European Powers may decide among themselves. But since the eastern coast of Africa is on the Atlantic Ocean, a redistribution of empire in that region of the world raises a question that the United States cannot ignore.

For as matters stand now there is no naval power in the Atlantic ocean, the British, and for all other obvious reasons the British navy is no threat to American security in this hemisphere, or to the maintenance of the Monroe doctrine. That is the reason why up to the present time American naval power has been designed for the Pacific Ocean, and on the assumption that no great navy was needed in the Atlantic Ocean. But since it has become clear that the situation is greatly changed.

It is now an open question whether the British navy is able to exercise its former mastery of the Atlantic Ocean. With the aerial threat to London, with the greatly weakened position of France, the weakness of Portugal and of the Portuguese islands half way across the Atlantic, the conditions in Spain and the growing unrest in Africa from the hinterlands of Gibraltar and Suva to Cape Town, British maritime supremacy in the Atlantic is no longer what it was.

Under these circumstances the return to Germany of the former German colonies on the west coast of Africa, or a partition of the Portuguese Empire, or both, would not only make Germany a naval power in the Atlantic Ocean but could provide a potential base as near to the heart of South America as any base possessed by the United States.

Since Germany, Italy and Japan are acting in concert, even if they do not have an actual alliance, ordinary prudence will compel the United States to consider its own interest, and certain possible claims of its own, if there is to be a redistribution of empire on the shores of the Atlantic Ocean.

Those who wish to understand the American aspect of the problem can do no better than to study the excellent maps published in the Oct. 11 issue of Life, and to read Maj. George Fielding Elliot's book, "The Ramparts We Watch." They will see from the maps and from the book that a redistribution of African colonies, particularly one which involved the dismantling of the empire of the Portuguese, could establish German naval and air bases nearer to the interior of South America than any base which the United States possesses.

It does not mean that Germany has any present plans for the invasion and conquest of territory in South America. But what would mean is that the South American nations, and particularly Brazil, would soon conclude that if the Monroe Doctrine were ever put to a practical test, the United States would be too far away to maintain it effectively.

Today our relations with Brazil are such that the United States is in a position to improve its position in the Americas. It is a position of strength, and it is a position of opportunity.

IMPROVEMENTS IN AUTOS DISPLAYED AT NATIONAL SHOW

Roosevelt Sends Congratulations Expressing Gratification at Quickening of Trade.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—What the well-dressed motor will wear during the 1938 season—from fender headlamps to the practical equivalent of zipper tops, greeted gazers at the National Automobile Show today. On display for the next eight days at Grand Central Palace will be such new gadgets of comfort and safety as:

Automatic gear shifts that operate by a flick of the finger on a steering-post lever.

A new whipped-rubber upholstery for car seats that is supposed to level out bad spots and keep the passenger from bouncing.

"Tap" speedometers that move horizontally across the dashboard, and other speedometers that signal "all well" with a green light, flash a warning with an amber one, and danger with a red light.

President Roosevelt sent his best wishes to the management, expressing his gratification that the industry showed a "quickening of trade."

More than 250 cars and chassis were on display.

In Boston for Friend's Debut

MISS ANNE WENDLING

YOUNGER daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Wendling, 4509 Pershing avenue, who with her sister, Miss Peggy, will attend the debut ball tonight in Boston of Miss Barbara Bullitt, who has visited here frequently. The debutante is the niece of William C. Bullitt, United States Ambassador to France.

walked. The hallway was decorated with more white chrysanthemums, and the staircase covered with greenery.

The bride wore white satin, her gown made princess and fitted from the low heart-shaped neckline to the hem. It was fastened by small satin buttons to the waistline in back, and long sleeves were slightly puffed at the shoulder. White tulle formed a poke-shaped bonnet for the bride, the under brim lined with orange blossoms, and from this hung a circular veil, fingertip in length. She carried a white satin prayer book, marked by a spray of white orchids.

Miss Jean Rauh, sister of the bride, returned from Bryn Mawr College to be maid of honor for her sister, whose other attendants were Miss Betsy Tuteur of Cleveland, O., and Mrs. Gordon Scherck, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, whose husband served as best man. All wore gowns alike, identical in style to the bride's gown but of pale chrysanthemum green slipper satin. They wore brown velvet polka bonnets, the brims lined in the green satin, and streamers of chrysanthemum. Each carried a muff of green orchids.

Mrs. Rauh was gown in heavy violet blue crepe and wore dark red orchids. Mr. Scherck is the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Henry J. Scherck of St. Louis and has made his home at 6521 Waterman avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Scherck Jr. received friends in the hallway after the wedding. Later a dinner for wedding guests was given. The walls and ceiling of the rathskeller were covered with green foliage for the bridal table and three tables of young friends were seated with them. Mr. and Mrs. Scherck's table was decorated with gardenias and lilies of the valley, and assorted white chrysanthemums were centerpieces for the others. Four tables, each seating 10 guests, were arranged in the dining room, and here members of the family were seated. White chrysanthemums also decorated this room and formed centerpieces for the tables.

Mr. Scherck and his bride will spend their honeymoon at the Greenbrier Hotel, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and on their return live at 732 South Hanley road.

Mrs. Ross A. Woolsey, 709 South Skinker boulevard, will leave Sunday for Atlanta, Ga., to visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lovick Pease Jr. Dr. and Mrs. Woolsey moved after this fall to their present address after disposing of their home, 6350 Waterman avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard S. Hawes, 4943 Maryland avenue, have departed for a two-week visit to San Antonio and Houston, Tex.

An Armistice day luncheon was given by Mrs. Walter H. Kobusch, 6300 Forsythe boulevard, at noon at the St. Louis Woman's Club for three of the season's debutantes.

Mrs. John R. Caulk, Ballas and Clayton roads, has departed for Pittsburgh, Pa., where she will spend the winter with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Evans. In the spring she plans to visit Honolulu.

Miss Elsie Rauh and Henry J. Scherck Jr. were married last night at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Rauh, 5 Upper Ladue road, Rabbi James Heller of Cincinnati, cousin of Mr. Scherck, performed the ceremony, witnessed only by the immediate families and a few friends of the bride and bridegroom.

An improvised altar of large white chrysanthemums and candles was arranged against the living room mantel, and white aisle posts led from it to the stairway, down which the bridal party

87 COCKER SPANIELS COMPETE AT SHOW

One-Day Specialty Exhibition Opens at Gatesworth Hotel.

A one-day specialty show of cocker spaniels, which have become one of the most popular breeds of dogs in America because of their friendliness and ability as retrievers, got off to a yipping start this morning at the Gatesworth Hotel, with 87 entries competing for honors.

There are playful, yelping puppies, which continually wag their short tails and jump around the stalls when a visitor pets them, and there are old-eyed veterans, which just sit unruffled and gaze listlessly about the hotel ballroom, wondering, perhaps, what it is all about.

The exhibitors appeared more concerned than their pets. Brushes in hand, they constantly smoothed out the dogs' silky coats, wiping terms of endearment into the long, pendulous ears.

Whenever a visitor stopped at a stall, the owner would bustle up and proceed to extol the merits of the entry. "My puppy and I have a grand time together," one attractive young woman said. "He swims with me and we go duck-hunting and I just wouldn't trade him for anything in the world." The object of her affections seemed to sense that she was praising it and licked her hand.

Chief difficulty in getting the show under way was the desire of the dogs to strike up new acquaintances among the dogs. Confusion reigned until the owners finally leashed their entries to the stalls, which form a square facing the judging stand. Undaunted, the dogs tried without success to jump to neighboring stalls, and then had to be content with exchanging affectionate barks.

The first of the 45 classes to be judged was that of the puppies, six to nine months old. Robert Moseley of Waterloo, Ia., who is judging all the classes, seemed to enjoy the efforts of the novices at friendliness. His chief difficulty was in keeping the puppies from sitting down and rolling over playfully when he looked them over. The veterans just gazed at the whole proceedings with supreme indifference.

The judging continued this afternoon and will be concluded at 10 p. m., at which time William J. Becker, president of the Cocker Spaniel Club of Greater St. Louis, which is sponsoring the show, will award a special trophy to the owner of the best dog in the show.

Silver trophies valued by club members at about $200 will be presented to winners of the various divisions. There, at the conclusion of the show, $5 special and cash prizes will be presented to the outstanding dogs. The owners, of course, will keep the cash and trophy awards, but the cocker spaniels have their eyes on the many pounds of dog food offered by various firms.

MARY PICKFORD, THEDA BARA MOVIES SEEN BY FILM GROUP

Second Historical Program From Museum of Modern Art Brought to Screening Room.

Lionel Barrymore as a romantic young minister, Wallace Beery as a debonair leading man and Mary Pickford at the beginning of her rise to fame were brought back to view last night as the Film Group saw its second program of old films at the S'Encore Screening Room, 3143 Olive street.

The general subject of the program was "The Rise of the American Film" and its four examples were "The New York Hat," which came out in 1912 and featured Barrymore and Miss Pickford; "The Fugitive," a William S. Hart Western released in 1914; "The Clever Dummy," from 1917, which featured Beery, Ben Turpin, Chester Conklin and Juanita Hansen, and "A Fool There Was," one of Theda Bara's greatest "vampire" successes, from 1914.

It was this last, accompanied by a piano score relying heavily on "The Birth of Passion," that gave the group the most amusement. Based on a Kipling poem and a stage play current at the time of its production, it showed the successive stages of the fall of a family man who met with the "vamp."

All the films, as well as three programs yet to come, are loaned by the Museum of Modern Art Film Library in New York. The next program, on Nov. 24, will be devoted to D. W. Griffith's "Intolerance." J. Lesser Goldman is head of the Film Group.

FREDERICK P. JOHNSON

This earth. An epoch of reaction has set in, of lawlessness and moral anarchy. And yet, paradoxical as it would sound, the spirit has at the same time entered into a new age of morality. I mean an age of simplification, of humble recognition of the distinction between good and evil. Evil has been revealed to us with such crassness and vulgarity that our eyes are opened to the dignity and simple beauty of the good. We have taken it to heart; we acknowledge it, and feel thereby no sense that our refinement has suffered a derogation.

Voices of America.

That is, if you like, a renewal of the spirit. And indeed I have often thought that such an epoch of spiritual renewal and simplification might be America's great hour. I have said that in this dark age it would be her task to preserve and cherish the cultural inheritance of the Western World. What I had in mind was this: her youth, her inexhaustible moral freshness; her mental temper, which stands closer to the Biblical and monumental than any in Europe, fit her, at this crisis in world affairs, to lift her voice with simple and massive authority. There would be nothing in this of presumption. It would be the voice of independence and freedom, speaking in accents which have become a moral necessity for this country, and which may help towards the spiritual healing of Europe. In a desolate and morally leaderless world, may America stand the strong and unwavering protectress of the good and the godlike in man. May she do this, in the knowledge of good and evil, aware of her own human insufficiency, but scorning violence and the lie, and standing by her sound and vital belief in the good, in freedom and truth, peace and justice.

SPANISH ARMIES MOVE NEW MEN TO EASTERN FRONTS

Loyalists and Rebels Take Advantage of Fog to Obtain Additional Troops and Supplies.

By the Associated Press.
HENDAYE, France (at the Spanish Frontier), Nov. 11. — Spanish Government and insurgent armies sloshed their campaigns on the Ebro and Segre River fronts in Northeastern Spain today in order to patch their ranks, shattered by days of fighting.
Taking advantage of fog which blanketed battlefields, the opposing armies moved up fresh troops, replenished their artillery and obtained ammunition and supplies.
The lull in fighting found the insurgents controlling all but minor pockets on the right bank of the Ebro River.
Government troops held their positions on the west side of the Segre River, although strong insurgent counter-attacks had slowed up their advance toward Fraga and Lerida.
The Government's front on the west bank of the Ebro, which a week ago was said to have been reduced to a width of 25 miles, was reported now to be only about 10 miles wide. The insurgents said they were pushing north from Venta de Los Campesinos toward Asco, the last important town held by the Government on the west bank.

450 CHURCH OFFICERS GIVE DINNER FOR BISHOP WATKINS

New Head of Southern Methodist
St. Louis Diocese Shares Honors
With Bishop Moore of Dallas.
Bishop William T. Watkins of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was honored at an "officials' family dinner" last night at Centenary Church, Sixteenth and "ine streets, attended by approximately 450 church officers of the St. Louis district. Bishop Watkins, newest bishop in the church, is head of the twelfth area of the Southern Methodist Church, of which Missouri is a part. He was formerly professor of sacred religious history at Emory University, Atlanta, Ga.
Goals for the new conference year were discussed by William P.
Mason, district lay leader, and Dr.
C. Q. Smith, presiding elder. They expressed the wish of getting 1500 new members in the churches next year.
Besides Bishop Watkins, an honored guest was Bishop John M.
Moore of Dallas, Tex.

550 COMPLAINTS MADE UNDER WAGE-HOUR LAW

Failure to Pay Minimum Wage for Time and Half for Overtime Alleged.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. — Elmer F. Andrews, wage-hour administrator, announced yesterday he had received 550 complaints of employer violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act. He told a press conference that the complaints were based on alleged failure to pay the statutory minimum of 25 cents an hour or failure to pay time and a half in cash for overtime.
Andrews announced regulations which would permit employment of handicapped workers from Oct. 24 to next Feb. 1, at less than the minimum wage if they are employed by "charitable organizations and institutions conducted not for profit but for the purpose of carrying out a recognized program of rehabilitation of handicapped individuals."
He also called a public hearing for Nov. 28 on applications for permission to employ learners in the textile industry at less than the minimum wage.

NAZIS STOP PAY OF PASTORS OPPOSING THE GOVERNMENT

Protestant Church Men Accused of Trying to Disrupt Solidarity at Time of Munich Parley.
By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Nov. 11. — The Minister of Public Worship, Hanns Kerrl, struck a blow yesterday at the so-called Confessional Councils of Brethren (Evangelical pastors opposed to the Nazi church program) by ordering the stoppage of stipends to all Protestant clerical opponents of the Nazi administration.
It was explained through DNB
(the official German news agency) that these non-Nazi pastors "attempted to disturb national solidarity under the cloak of calling meetings at prayer and intercession for Sept. 30 at the time of the highest political tension (the four-Power negotiations at Munich)."
The news agency explanation said the leading Evangelical Bishops had disapproved of holding such meetings at that time.

Record U. S. Pear Crop Forecast.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11. — A record production of 31,810,000 bushels of pears in the United States is forecast for this year's crop. The
ricultural Economics, and compares with a production of 29,548,000 bushels in 1937 and the 10-year average of 24,826,000 bushels from 1927 to 1936. The estimated yield for 1938 included: Illinois, 429,000 bushels.

SELLS PLANT FOR $1,000,000 GIVES $250,000 TO EMPLOYEES

Mount Vernon (N. Y.) Manufacturer Asks, "What Could I Have Done Without Them?"
By the Associated Press.
MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Nov.
11. — John F. Webendorfer, who sold his business recently for $1,000,000, distributed $250,000 of it among his employees.
"What could I have done without them?" Webendorfer asked.
"They were responsible for my success in business and it is only fair that they should have a share in the profits."

The business was the Webendorfer-Wills Co., manufacturer of printing machinery, principally off-set presses. The purchaser was the American Type Foundry.
Sharing in the $250,000 were 115 employees, their share based on length of service. Four men, who had served 15 years, received $10,000 each; two received $8000; five, $7000 and several others $5000 each.
The company was established in New York City 30 years ago, but was moved here two years later.
Webendorfer said today all of the employees would have jobs under the new set-up, as the local plant would be kept open with Webendorfer and his son, John, in charge.

RECALL VOTE ON MIAMI MAYOR, TWO COMMISSIONERS ORDERED

Movement Grows Out of Trial of Two of Them on Charge of Seeking Utility Bribe.
By the Associated Press.
MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 11. — A recall election for three Miami City Commissioners including Mayor Robert R. Williams was ordered yesterday by Circuit Judge H. F. Atkinson.
The court set Dec. 15 as the election date. The commissioners are John W. Dubose and Ralph B. Ferguson. The order was signed in response to a taxpayers' suit.

A jury was seated yesterday in Criminal Court to try Williams, Dubose and Ralph B. Ferguson. They were charged with soliciting a $250,000 bribe from the Florida Power and Light Co. to settle a rate controversy. Their indictment on these charges led to the recall fight.
A bribery charge against Ferguson was dropped.

MAN BEATEN AND STABBED IN FIGHT IN EAST ST. LOUIS

Police Find Woman Striking Vic-

Him in Roadway.
Earl Dunham, an elevator oper-ribs and four stab wounds in the back suffered in a fight in a tax-

"Valley" district of East St. Louis, early today.
Police reported they found James ville avenue, holding Dunham on ern while Peggy Watts, 122 Colthe dirt street in front of the fav-linaville avenue, beat him on the head with a soda bottle. Thorpe and Miss Watts resisted arrest, they said, and were booked for investigation. Dunham told police the woman had stabbed him when he got into an argument with Thorpe.

AGAINST ANTI-PICKETING LAW

Oregon Labor Leaders Meet to Consider Action.
PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 11. — Organized labor intends to act against an anti-picketing bill approved by Oregon voters in the general election.
Labor leaders met here today to consider action against the law which would limit picketing, strikes and collection of union dues. They said national backing in a con-fight to test constitutionality of the measure had been virtually provided in a telegram from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Overboard with old Traditions!

THERE'S NO GRASS GROWING under the feet of the automobile industry! Of all industries, it's quickest to discard traditional ways of doing things for new and better ways.

Look at the world-famous record of great engineering back of Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler cars.

By pioneering hydraulic brakes, it overthrew the tradition of mechanical brakes . . .
and year by year, in car after car, mechanical brakes disappeared from the industry.

By popularizing the all-steel body, it led the way to obsoleting the old wood-frame composite body, giving motorists the protection of sturdy steel construction.

With the introduction of the high-compres-sion engine, a new trail was blazed in lively performance, greater economy in operation.

"Good Things First"

With the invention of Floating Power engine mountings, power vibration became something that people would no longer tolerate.

A great advance in comfort came through scientific weight distribution.

Straight From Nature Comes a New Fashion in Car Styles.

Functional Design

Oil filters . . . air cleaners . . . chair-high seats . . .
safety-styled interiors . . . the record of progress reveals a long list of important innovations introduced in Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler cars.

And now . . . for 1939 . . . Chrysler Corporation upsets tradition in automobile design.

Its great contribution to general progress in the industry this year is in establishing a new style trend with Functional Design.

Functional Design is the application of the laws of nature to automobile styling.

Nature "designed" birds for flying . . . fish for swimming . . . streamlined them for easy, natural flight through air or water.

The motor car started out as a mechanized

"horseless carriage." Slowly, over the years, it has grown out of the awkward age. And today, it comes to maturity, through Chrysler Corporation's new developments in design.

The New Streamlining

Gone are many air-resisting protrusions and attachments that heretofore cluttered the exterior of a car.

It was traditional to perch headlamps next to the radiator . . . two awkward obstacles in the path of smooth design. Well, headlamps now are where they ought to be—streamlined into the curves of the fenders.

It's the more attractive place for them . . .
and most efficient. Set lower and wide apart, they give you clearer, longer-range vision.

To have trunk space, tradition demanded the rear end of a car had to be humped out in a bulge. Not so now. You can have beautiful streamlining, yet with greater luggage space.

Interiors are designed for more comfort and luxury—and much greater driving ease.

The gear shift lever is now under the wheel on the steering column, and the floor is entirely clear of obstructing levers.

Blazes a New Trail

An entire new trend in styling is initiated.
Nothing could better impress you with this fact than a visit to the Automobile Show, where you can conveniently see all four of the new Chrysler Corporation cars, and make ready comparisons with other cars.

Every detail of the new styling has its useful, functional side. The cars are altogether different—each with its own distinctive style and individuality—but all carrying out the funda-mentals of Functional Design.

Again for 1939, as throughout the years,
"You Get the Good Things First from Chrysler Corporation."

CARRIED ARMISTICE MESSAGE

On Nov. 11, 1918, the four runners of the 315th Infantry, A. E. F., pictured at the left, carried official orders to Lieut. Col. Bunt near Etraye, Meuse, France, that the armistice ending the World War had been signed and that firing was to cease at 11:00 a. m. They were photographed after traveling from headquarters to the front under heavy shell fire. Private R. D. Thompson (second from left) was the first runner in the line. The others followed at 20-pace intervals to pick up the message in the event that the man carrying the vital order became a casualty. The group, from left, Privates William Wachter, Thompson, J. J. # Case Records of a PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane
Of Northwestern University

MEASURE yourself by the rating scale described today and see if you are emotionally immature. Probably the greatest cause of divorce and unhappiness is emotional immaturity in grown men and women.

CASE K-146: George is my 8-year-old son. The other day he brought home an invitation for us to attend the Parent-Teacher Association.

"The teacher wrote it on the blackboard and we copied it," he proudly exclaimed as his mother opened his note. "What's this?" Mrs. Crane asked when she reached the bottom of the missive. George grinned. I looked at the slip of paper. He had signed his invitation with "Your doxy son, George." Shades of the seven dwarfs, you see!

"Did your teacher tell you to do that?" his mother inquired.

"Oh, no," he quickly replied. "Her note on the blackboard said 'Your loving son,' but all the boys blushed at that. They couldn't think of anything else, though. But I did," and he was proud as a peacock. Why did all the boys blush at the thought of signing themselves "Your loving son," when addressing their mothers?

DIAGNOSIS: These youngsters are at the "gang" stage in their emotional development, so they abhor anything that pertains to the opposite sex. They feel that an affectionate conclusion to their note brands them as sissy. Already, therefore, a very definite sex distinction is made between girls and boys. This is the stage where we find them ridiculing tears as evidence of silliness.

They also scoff at curly hair on their own sex and delight in twinkling similar adornments on the heads of their girl classmates. Many fond parents seem oblivious to these interesting psychological changes in their youngsters. You can enjoy your children much more, however, if you intelligently observe them pass into these definite phases of their development.

MANY GROWN men and women, brilliant and possibly successful in their business or professional careers, are still occupying a more childish emotional plane. Some are fixated on aged parents so they never can get up nerve and resolution to marry, or, if they do, they soon run home to mamma or papa.

Others are adult homosexuals, never evolving beyond the "gang" stage in their emotional growth. A great majority, however, reach the heterosexual level where we look to the opposite sex for affection and our mates.

In America today we see little evidence of food starved youngsters. But even in the best of homes we can find children who are being stunted in their emotional development by overly fond parents who monopolize their youngsters, and refuse to let them lead normal lives.

WIDOWS and divorced parents are especially prone to mollycoddle their children. So are those who have an only child, for they teach him to expect an undue amount of love throughout life. In our home we have five youngsters. Each receives approximately 20 per cent of our parental attention.

Suppose we had only one child and lavished the full 100 per cent of adult attention and care upon him. Wouldn't he be a more difficult man for his wife to live with happily, than the child who has received much less attention? Most certainly, so equip your youngster for happy adulthood by letting him mature emotionally.

Time Wasters -- By Elsie Robinson

"PUBLIC enemy No. 1." Once Messrs. Capone, Dillinger and Diamond had the dubious honor of wearing that title. Yet, at their most vicious heights, they never caused a tenth as much demoralization as another condition which most of us accept without a question.

ELSIE ROBINSON.

Murderers they may have been . . . thieves, thugs, liars, cheats. Nevertheless, as public enemies they were harmless pliers compared to the Time Wasters. Young Mrs. Galen Powell of 700 Horne street, Topeka, Kan., is responsible for this particular blast. Says she:

"How can we rid ourselves of idle chatters who waste minutes and hours by their small talk? While working my way through high school, I soon learned the value of even a minute: I had so few. But no matter how well I planned, well-meaning friends wasted treasured hours with idle gossip. Night after night, I went to bed in tears over unaccomplished tasks, begging God to give me the strength to forgive such intruders.

"Now as a young wife, I meet the same problem with my fellow housekeepers who literally waste hours in little-tattle. We have safes and banks to guard our jewels, silverware, money and important papers--and yet we allow ourselves to be openly fobbed off by one of our most valuable assets, 'time.'"

A TIMELY protest, sister--and it's a safe bet that at least 50,000 readers will groan sympathetically in reply and cry: "Ain't it the truth?" For with each speeding-up of our swift, twentieth century tempo . . . with each new complication of our Machine Age technique . . . time becomes more pressing and precious and the Time Waster more of a pest.

No one appreciates this painful fact as keenly as the modern Business Woman, particularly if she has an executive position. From the day she enters office, it becomes her most pest and persistent problem . . . one which it is impossible for her domestic sisters to understand unless they have held jobs themselves.

WHAT CAN WE do about 'em? Start working on ourselves! Stop blaming the other fellow for demoralizing our schedules . . . start realizing that protecting our own time is as much our personal job as washing our ears. And instead of pestering God with tearful pleas for tolerance--use the spunk and sense He gave us to prevent conditions which require tolerance. In short, learn to say "No!" Say it tactfully, charmingly, patiently if need be--but say it. And stick to it.

But how can we protect our time without hurting the other fellow's feelings? Often we can't. But what of it? The person who is either too dumb to realize the value of time, or too selfish to respect that value, should have his feelings hurt. The "friend" who turns against you because you expect him to conform to your modern tempo, isn't worth keeping.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU--By Bob Burns

I GUESS a lot of my friends are still wonderin' why I didn't go to London on my vacation as I planned it at first. It's jest simply because somebody told me that I would be hittin' London right in the middle of their foggy season and it scared me. I jest get plum lost in a fog. I guess it's because we don't have 'em much down home.

My Uncle Sanky was depot agent when the first big fog rolled in there and the second day, when the superintendent called him from St. Louis, and asked him if the trains were running through there all right, Uncle Sanky says, "Yes, but where they're comin' from and where they're going and what they're doing here, I'll be darned if I know!"

The Cause and Treatment of Kidney Stones

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

BESIDES the kidney changes which affect more or less all the cells of the kidneys and are grouped under the head of Bright's disease, there are disturbances in the kidneys which affect only a few of the cells, or do not affect their function at all.

One of these is stones. Stones form in the pelvis of the kidney, that sac or lake into which all the kidney tubules empty and which itself empties into ureters, those conduits which convey the urine to the bladder. Stones form as the result of the precipitation of urinary salts.

Kidney and bladder stones have always afflicted mankind. We have records going back to the earliest times. Probably it was more common in other days than now, for there was a large profession of surgeons who did nothing else but "cut for the stone." It must have been a ghastly procedure in days without anesthesia or asepsis.

The formation of a stone is a more mysterious than the formation of rock candy when a string is let down into a glass containing a solution of sugar. Two elements are necessary--a foreign body and a concentration of salts in solution. The urine always has salts in solution. The foreign body is usually a group of bacteria, or some kidney cells degenerated as a result of infection. Rosenow has produced stones by infecting the teeth of dogs with germs found in the kidney pelvis of patients with stones.

The concentration of salts in the urine has been considered another factor. But injection of crystals in the blood stream has not resulted in the experimental production of stones. Diet seems to have nothing to do with it, although deficiency of vitamin A has been suggested. As lack of this vitamin also predisposes to infection, that may be its role. In olden days children had stones frequently. Now it is less frequent, perhaps because they live on a better balanced diet.

The outstanding symptom of stone is colic. The cause of the colic is the stone going from the pelvis of the kidney into the ureter, down to the bladder. The smaller the stone, the more likely it is to enter the ureter and cause colic.

The X-ray shows a stone in about 90 per cent of cases. Treatment of stones offers today all the refinements of modern medical science. The acute attack can be relieved by morphine. When the condition is serious enough to threaten health, modern surgery is painless and very safe.

Attempts to "dissolve the stone" are never successful. Any chemical which will dissolve a stone will also dissolve the kidney.

But if the chemical composition of the stone is known, much can be done to prevent recurrence. For oxalate stone, an acid reaction of the urine should be maintained and foods containing oxalates, tea, coffee, cocoa, rhubarb, spinach, beans, currants and figs--should be avoided. For the rare uric acid stones, the urine should be kept alkaline, and the diet used in gout instituted.

Cagney Double Gets Contract After Preview

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 11. RESEMBLANCE to an established Hollywood star is a hindrance--emphatically not an aid--to anyone seeking a career in the movies. Imitation may be a form of flattery but it is not a good way to get a chance out here.

Producers want no truck with second Myrna Loy, Clark Gable or Robert Taylor. There is a constant cry for new faces--not new versions of the old ones.

It takes an occasional exception to prove a rule and in this case the exception is Frankie Burke, a 17-year-old Brooklyn boy, who looks, acts and speaks so much like James Cagney that a preview crowd was electrified by his appearance in a movie the other night.

After the premiere of "Angels With Dirty Faces," Warner Brothers handed young Burke a seven-year term contract. They don't know what they're going to do with him but the ovation he won from that first-night crowd forced their hand. If they hadn't signed the boy a competitor probably would have stepped in and grabbed him.

Up to the time he was chosen to play Cagney as a boy, Burke had only a nuisance value to the studio. He had become a pest. For three years Cagney himself had been dodging contracts with the boy because he was always putting "the bite" on Jimmy for an opportunity that the star never dreamed would present itself.

When Burke was 14, his likeness to Cagney became so well known around his Brooklyn neighborhood that folks filled him full of what seemed to be very bad advice. They told him he ought to go to Hollywood. He ran away from home, stumped his way to the coast and put his imitations to a real test. They didn't work. He found Cagney on location and, as he recalls, "busted up to him." No go--and so the youngster went hitch-hiking back to Brooklyn. He tried the same thing a year later, with no better success, but he returned only as far as Las Vegas, Nev., where

He came down to Los Angeles for an Orpheum Theater guest night and did his imitations there. The show was caught by a Warner scout but he was neither impressed nor interested. Burke went back to Las Vegas and his job. There, he read of the search being made for a boy to play the role of a youthful Cagney in "Angels." He hitchhiked back to Los Angeles again and applied at the studio gates. He was refused admission. He was walking back from the Burbank studio when Solly Balno, of the Warner casting office, drove along. Burke's thumb brought Balno's car to a halt and the boy got in. During that ride back to town Burke sold himself.

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr:

We are planning now to have a Thanksgiving party to be given at one of the girl's homes or in the school gymnasium. Could you give us any ideas for table decoration and games? Thank you.

MIDGE.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

I am giving here the suggestions I have for table decoration, but the games would take too much space in the column; hence I am going to ask you to send self-addressed, stamped envelope for them.

Thanksgiving table decoration: Hollow out a pumpkin to make a bowl for chrysanthemums. Use place cards of the autumn shades, yellow crepe paper cups for nuts, yellow, orange or rust crepe paper cloth. A white tablecloth may be used with autumn leaves sprinkled over it. As Thanksgiving typifies the harvest season, corn, pumpkins (very small ones), fruit and vegetables could be placed around the centerpiece, or on either side the length of the table. Make a basket by hollowing out a pumpkin—a very large one—and cut a high handle over it. Put all of the fruits of the season in it with shiny green leaves interspersed. At each end use hollowed-out egg plants—fat ones—filled with small yellow chrysanthemums.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM WRITING again in answer to the letter signed "Overworked Eyes." Of course, I regret being misunderstood, but probably the reasons are two-fold; first, that, being innocent of the accusations, I do not take them seriously; secondly, I do not believe in any kind of false pride—not pride of family, position, achievement or even goodness, because all gifts are from our Creator, for which we should be most humbly grateful. It should be an uplifting source; but when one is too proud to show love and devotion, it shows the weakness of one's own affections.

I readily confess, Mrs. Carr, that I have always been very fond of this young man, who well deserves it, but on account of his negative, or at least passive attentions I have never felt that I could, openly, regard his attentions seriously. I forgive him, however, for his lack of faith in my honesty of purpose, and, regardless of his interest I hope this will make him see things in a truer, better light.

SINCERITY.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

IN ANSWER to the person who signed herself Heartbroken, I think I am the one to whom she refers. I certainly would love to see her again and will forget the past entirely. Yes, she made me lose faith in her, but I forget and forgive, because I never knew what it was to have a real pal until I met her. I've been alone ever since she left and have wished and prayed that sometime I may get to see her again; it means a new world to me. No sacrifice would be too great for me either, if I were sure the writer of the letter is the one I mean.

H. M.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WILL YOU PLEASE tell me Loretta Young's actual age? I remember seeing her in grownup roles 10 years ago, but have had so many arguments about her age, that I would like to find out for sure. Her career started early, but I think she is older than most of my friends realize.

EDDIE GILL.

Loretta Young was born January 6, 1913.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

WOULD YOU help me? I have five children, ages 15, 14, 13, 12, and 3. They are all in need of winter clothes for school. I can sew and make over all kinds of garments. The boy 12 needs clothes so bad. My husband is a disabled World War veteran and works on WPA. I am sending our pastor's name for reference.

T. S. V.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

CAN YOU TELL me in what city Paul Ash, the orchestra leader, is now playing? Or where shall I inquire? Thanks very much.

MISS ST. LOUIS.

Paul Ash is now playing at the Roxy Theater in New York City.

Social Usage -- By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

RE white candles permissible on a wedding breakfast table? I thought they might be allowed on this occasion since they would, I think, dress up the table.

Answer: I'm sorry but really they are not correct—unless breakfast is before full daylight! Or the dining room is otherwise dark.

Dear Mrs. Post:

MY SON IS A junior and of course his wife and I have the same name. They live in our same neighborhood and there are many times it is necessary for me to introduce my daughter-in-law and also many times of the day when I speak of her to one of my neighbors. Therefore, (1) will you tell me how I should introduce her; (2) how to speak of her, and (3) what to call her in front of other people? She is not young and I don't know whether it sounds right for me to call her by first name or not.

Answer: (1) To strangers or in business: "Mrs. John Jones, junior"; to social acquaintances, "My son John's wife" or to friends, "John's" (or whatever you call him) wife." (2) The same. (3) "Mary." What else could you call her?

Dear Mrs. Post:

I HAVE BEEN separated from my husband for over six years. He pays toward my support although I am working but earning very little. In my work I have met a man who wants to take me out and I have been putting him off because in all these years I have not gone out alone with men because I thought it was wrong as long as I was married. Some of my friends think I am foolish to live this solitary existence while I am still young (I'm just 30) and say that after all these years, people couldn't possibly say anything unpleasant about me. Will you give me your opinion?

Answer: Because you were once married does not mean that you must always sit home alone. But if you are interested in this man—or any other—it would be best to get a divorce.

Dear Mrs. Post:

DO YOU THINK Georgian silver would look all right in a Louis XV dining room?

Answer: Combining them would be anachronistic, as you probably know, since the Georges reigned long after the Louis XV period came to an end. But unless you make a great point of historical correctness, there is no reason why you should not choose this beautiful silver—no matter where you put it.

West's Failure To Understand Partner's Lead

Club Return Would Have Resulted in 1100-Point Penalty for Opponents.

By Ely Culbertson

LAST FRIDAY'S QUESTION.
QUESTION 23. The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 diamond 2 spades Pass 3 spades
Pass (final bid)
You are East. West opens the diamond jack. Your hand and dummy are:

DUMMY
♠ 10 9 4
♥ K J 6
♦ 5 4
♣ A Q J 10 8 3

You play the diamond ace and declarer drops the king. What is your next play, and why? (Short explanation will suffice.)

Answer: You should return the seven of hearts. Your one chance of defeating the contract is to find the heart queen and either a trump or a club stopper in West's hand. The heart queen will force dummy's king, and later West will lead heart through J 6 to your A 10. A low doubleton in hearts with a quick trump trick in partner's hand will give equally satisfactory results. (No demerit for improper return, but take 25 points credit if you returned seven of hearts.)

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 30: At rubber bridge, you are West, declarer at a three no trump contract. Opponents made no bid. North leads the spade six. Your hand and dummy are:
WEST (Declarer) DUMMY
♠ K 6 ♠ A 7 5 3
♥ K 6 ♥ A K 9 8 3 2
♦ K 4 ♦ Q 6 5 2
What card do you lead from dummy after winning with the spade ace? Give short reason for your play.

TODAY'S HAND.

East, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.
♠ K Q 5
♥ K 10 6 4 3
♦ A 8 3 2
♣ A Q 10 9 6

The bidding:
East South West North
1 heart 1 spade 2 hearts 2 spades
3 spades 4 spades Double Pass
6 hearts Pass Pass 6 spades
Double Pass Pass
East's three-spade cue bid was, of course, a subtle fib, the object of which was to talk the opponents out of a spade opening when East reached the slam he so fully intended reaching. Despite the vulnerability conditions, North decided to "save" against the slam, figuring that he and partner could afford to go down three tricks (800 points) as against the 980 points that would accrue to East-West for a fulfilled slam.

When it came to the play, East recognized fully that the contract would have to be defeated four tricks as compensation for the slam in hearts, and aimed his defense at that objective. Unfortunately, his partner, West, did not see eye-to-eye with him. The opening lead was the diamond jack, dummy played low, but East still overtook with the diamond queen and deliberately underled the A-K of hearts. West, to his great surprise, won with a low heart. If West had stopped to think for a moment he would have had to realize that the only possible justification of East's plays was that East was void of clubs and wanted to ruff a club return. Otherwise there could have been no conceivable reason for East under-playing his A-K of hearts, to put West on lead. West knew he had two sure club tricks and saw no reason to "jeopardize" one by a club return. Instead, he led a spade. Declarer won and ruffed the heart jack, then started clubs. West made his two club tricks all right, but these, with one heart and one diamond, defeated the contract only 800 points, not enough to compensate for the lost heart slam. A club return by West at the third trick, when East had demanded it, would have resulted in a 1100-point penalty and a top on the board.

After Long Negotiation Pope Pius, Fifth "Prisoner of The Vatican" Achieved His Greatest Aim, the Signing of the Lateran Treaty

By THOMAS B. MORGAN

CHAPTER FIVE.
This is the fifth article on the Vatican and Pope Pius XI from the book, "A Reporter at the Papal Court."

Pope Pius XI assumed his pontificate in a state of war with Italy. The Holy See was still despoiled of its temporal power and the King of Italy was well entrenched in Rome as his capital. In other days, when the Papacy possessed fighting soldiers or could call for troops from the Powers, it would have meant armed combat. Such a conflict might have been settled before Pius XI came to the throne with either side the undisputed victor. But he found it in just this position Pius IX had left it in 1870. He was the fifth "prisoner of the Vatican."

There had been intermittent upheavals in the quarrel, some of which he had personally witnessed from boyhood. Now the quarrel was in abeyance but the Pope was still not on speaking terms with the King of Italy nor with his government. It was a continuing anachronism in a country entirely Roman Catholic, creating constant friction between the civil and ecclesiastical authorities which sometimes verged on incongruity. A prefect could not talk to a bishop. An ambassador to the King of Italy could not attend a Vatican ceremony. A prelate must not visit a foreign embassy. Church processions could not be held. Italian soldiers were forbidden entrance into St. Peter's. Cardinals were at first enjoined from "settling foot" on a Roman street and so rode in carriages.

But Pius XI had seen enough of the quarrel. It had now become incompatible with common sense. The government had shown its inclination to reopen the question by commemorating the death of Benedict XV, by protecting religious processions by disregarding the transportation of the body of Leo XIII across Rome, by permitting the cross in public schools and its return to the Coliseum and the Capitoline palaces. Both sides were warming up to a reconciliation. There was a tendency to compromise. Unsuccessful contact occurred as far back as 1919 when Benedict XV was Pope.

Pope Pius XI undertook solution with greater energy than his predecessor. To be sure, the ground was cleared and there was a distinctly more favorable feeling. Following numerous gestures of goodwill on both sides stretching over four years, Pius XI and Benito Mussolini each secretly appointed a delegate to meet informally for an examination of the problem. Signor Francesco Pacelli, brother of the present Papal Secretary of State and general counsel for the Holy See, represented the Pope; Signor Domenico Barone, Italian privy councillor, represented Mussolini. Meetings of the two delegates began on Oct. 4, 1928, and were at first exploratory as the subject had so many angles.

In January, 1929, Barone died. Mussolini did not appoint anyone in his place and decided to conduct negotiations through Francesco Pacelli. This practically amounted to direct conversations with the Pope, for Signor Pacelli only carried the reaction of the one to the other with whatever new proposals each had to make. Negotiations moved faster. Besides the main problem, there were numerous ramifications.

By the first week in February the treaty and concordat, which comprised the agreement and settled the 60-year-old quarrel, were completed. They were formidable documents consisting of more than 7000 words and had required numerous rewritings, all done in the modest office of Francesco Pacelli. Both sides agreed that signatures would be fixed on Feb. 11, in the Lateran Palace.

The ceremony of affixing the signatures took place with elaborate formalities in direct contrast to the modesty of the protracted negotiations. The hall chosen for the event was spacious and lavish in Renaissance frescoes. Four delegates at the head of whom was Cardinal Gasparri, represented the Pope; four delegates headed by Mussolini represented the King of Italy. The credentials of each delegation were read in impressive solemnity and finally the eight signatures were affixed each to a score of documents all relating to the pact.

Great jubilation followed the signing. There were processions and church functions culminating in the Pope's formal emergence from the Vatican on the feast of Corpus Domini, July 26, the most elaborate outdoor religious display in modern times. The students of all the theological colleges, the religious orders, the parish priests, the Vatican armed forces, all the bishops present in Rome and the Sacred College of Cardinals participated.

I sat upon this widespread exultation as a propitious moment for petitioning the Pope to grant me a press interview. Such a request is perennially refused in the Vatican, but I counted on the happy state of mind of everyone to receive a more than sympathetic hearing. The petition was granted several days later.

I was sitting in the little throne room when Mgr. Confalonieri emerged from the Pope's library to tell me that the Holy Father was waiting. I walked to the door and there I saw Pius XI sitting at his desk.

He was happy, smiling. He was enjoying the satisfaction of great achievements. Hundreds of telegrams had come to him from all parts of the world congratulating him on having solved the Roman question and on the resumption of the temporal power. Although this temporal power extended only over 120 acres, the principle was saved. He was 72 years of age, but his face that morning did not show that he was over 55. He was ruddy with health and his voice and movements reflected his shining youth.

From which telegrams had come. He remembered some of the most difficult names and referred to the big cities designating their bishops.

"Words of great joy have come from everywhere," the Pope continued, "and it all was a great source of pleasure to us because we have overcome many trying obstacles to reach this final crowning of our efforts. We were not unmindful of the hard task before the other side because we knew that the Italian Government also had difficult moments. This Government showed great breadth of understanding and we were very appreciative of it. The question of territory was delicate and troublesome because no statesman is disposed to part with one particle of his national domain. We knew how that problem weighed upon the Government."

"We could meet that difficulty with understanding too," he added. "We were not desirous of territory. We wanted only that minimum which the Holy See to exercise its spiritual function with complete sovereignty in its own domain. It was a favorable occasion for us to show that it was not territory that we wanted, but the earthly space necessary to perform our spiritual office. This little space in reality is great because it encloses the tomb of St. Peter, the priceless treasures of the church, incomparable works of art and the basilica of St. Peter."

"The treaty of peace with Italy is one thing," continued the Holy Father, "but the concordat which is a part of it and follows it is another. While the treaty was an essential document of political reconciliation, the concordat is the essential document of spiritual reconciliation. The concordat is thus the instrument which perfects the spiritual union of Italy with the church."

I had seen the Pontiff in his most genial and friendly mood. He had been expansive to the point of talking almost continuously and in good humor to the extent of joking. Few moments in his whole pontificate have been so propitious for finding him thus at home with himself. This was at the apex of his great achievement. He had found satisfaction in an accomplishment of a life work for any great man. He had not mistaken the measure of the event and there was objectivity in his estimate of himself and of what was done. He was big enough to realize that his greatness lay in the results which his labor and intelligence produced.

Although Pius XI inaugurated his reign with an apostrophe to peace, it was not the peace of resignation nor of abject defeatism. He wanted a virile and dynamic peace and for such a peace he was ready to fight. Thirty years of cloistered library work had not destroyed his inherent combative nature. He could fight. He waged war in all parts of the world. Wherever he decided that the rights of the Holy See had been infringed upon, he prepared the battle order for priests and bishops. But there was one war in which he himself was on the firing line. Two years after the signing of the Lateran Pact, the conflict broke out between Mussolini and the Pope. There Pius XI was actually on the field.

The Lateran agreements seemed to be working well until the spring of 1931 when Fascist leaders accused Catholic lay associations of political activity in violation of the pact. A press campaign throughout Italy condemned the alleged violation. The Catholic program charging that it was opposition under the camouflage of religion. These attacks were especially leveled at Italian Catholic Action, a lay organization of which Monsignor Pizzardo was the national president.

THE Pontiff examined the program and activities of Catholic Action. He conducted a severe personal investigation. After the investigation he proclaimed that whatever the organization had done was within its rights and within the pact. To the press campaign, he replied with a press campaign through the limited Catholic organs, which in turn were quickly sequestered by the government. It was Mussolini's proud boast that he closed up more Catholic papers in those three months than in the previous seven years. Only the Osservatore Romano, the official Catholic organ, was immune because it was published in Vatican City and consequently could not be touched.

The Pope addressed a letter to Italian bishops exhorting them to protest against the arbitrary dissolution of Catholic societies and the sporadic acts of violence. The bishops were to call upon the faithful to rally against the attacks. All day long the Pontiff listened to reports, gave orders and prepared the counter-blows. He could not oppose violence with violence. He had no extensive police nor did he possess a communications system. He had to rely solely on his spiritual appeal in condemning "the despoilers" and in exhorting devoted Catholics to stand firmly by the Apostolic See.

As a climax to the daily occurrences of intermittent violence came a radio broadcast by the Italian government, transmitted over the short wave and evidently designed to present Mussolini's side of the case to all nations. This message was picked up and published in the United States. It accused the priests of purposely prohibiting religious processions so as to cast discredit on the government, charged Catholic Action with flagrant political activity and pointed to the fact that its "banners, insignia and membership cards" were "the outward sign of a political party." This message aroused the Pope more than any other single incident. He conceived it as reflecting on his own word when he had approved the work and aims of the organization. He condemned the government tactics in what he regarded as an endeavor to embarrass the Holy See in the eyes of the world. He characterized the message as "a complete distortion of the situation and a calumny."

He prepared an encyclical to the whole of the Catholic world. This message he had written in his own hand that he might put into it all the force of his spirit and all the emotion in his heart. Usually encyclicals are prepared on his dictated orders but this one he composed entirely himself. And when he sent it to the Vatican printing shop he gave orders that its existence and contents were to be guarded with the greatest secrecy as he did not wish any knowledge of it to get to the ears of the Government.

"The Holy Father picked up a copy of the encyclical and said that he had written it for the whole world. The problem was to get it published abroad, for he feared that it would be tampered with by the Italian Government if sent over the regular telegraph wires. He said he wanted to entrust me with the publication of the message outside of Italy. I told him that I would take it secretly to Paris, where through my newspaper connections I would secure its publication all over the world."

"I left Rome secretly, successfully crossed the Italian border and arrived in Paris. There I distributed the encyclical to the Associated Press, the United Press and other agencies."

This encyclical circulated with such attendant drama—secretly printed, secretly transported and smuggled out of Italy—had drawn the attention of the nations to the Italian ecclesiastical conflict. It was the Pope's answer to the Italian short-wave broadcast and produced the identical reaction he desired. This papal epistle became the property of the whole world. The fight could have smoldered for years. Two strong contrary wills, however, like those of Pius XI and Benito Mussolini could never wage a smoldering fight. Both were men of action; daily action. Violence had been answered by papal condemnation. Strong words had met strong words. It was a dynamic conflict. Only some powerful force could reconcile these wills. That force was the pressure of Catholic opinion aroused throughout the world by the Pope's message.

The violent attacks became less violent and happy signs pointed toward a calmer deliberation of the outstanding differences. Finally, the Government revoked its decree closing all the Catholic Action headquarters. The Italian Ambassador to the Holy See, Count de Vecchi, sounded out the Secretariat of State and gradually both sides ironed out their difficulties. On Sept. 2 an agreement was reached calling the end to hostilities. A pact was drawn up and peace declared.

With peace came the official visit of Mussolini to the Pope. It was fixed for Feb. 11, 1932, third anniversary of the signing of the Lateran Pact. It had taken three years before the Pope was finally ready to perform the great act of jubilation. The King and Queen of Italy had already fulfilled their duties of filial recognition as far back as 1929. Three years had elapsed before Mussolini was satisfied that reconciliation was without political pitfalls.

The next installment from "A Reporter at the Papal Court" will appear Monday and will tell of the activities of Pope Pius XI as an Alpine climber.

Van Hires a Cook and He and Janice Enjoy a Good Meal at His Apartment—She Learns He Can Be Stubborn on Occasions.

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN.
VAN was waiting for her that evening outside the employee's entrance. He looked hopelessly lost and bewildered as the hordes of girls dashed past him. It was Pat who first saw him and pushed Janice over where he was standing.

"You don't need to come and wait for me after work, you know," she chided. "That isn't in our contract."

"I know . . . I'm never going to do it again. The place is a madhouse, worse than assembly at Carlton." He took off his hat and wiped his forehead. "But I had to see you, and I was afraid you might have other plans. It's about Blossom."

She led the way to the street, making a way for him through the stampeding crowd. "Blossom?"

"Yes, she came this afternoon. She was waiting for me when I got back to the lab—after the wedding. I never expected to see her again—but there she was, and here she is, and I thought I'd better talk it over with you."

"Blossom?" she asked again.

"Yes, Blossom."

"Is she the girl you should have married in Carlton?"

"Oh, no—Blossom is—well Blossom took care of me in Carlton. She's black, although she sounds very clean and white, and she apparently decided nobody could take care of me as she had, so she came here. I didn't send her the money to come, but she raised it somehow, and she intends to stay. She's sort of positive about what she does—but she's got a fine heart, and I guess she's fond of me. She worked for me four years in Carlton."

He opened the door of the car and she slid in. "So she's here, and there's nothing I can do about it. I can't turn her away because she doesn't know another soul in town and she can't get references. Her fried chicken is marvelous, and her corned beef and cabbage—you've never eaten anything like it."

"What you are trying to say is that you've acquired a good maid," Janice leaned back comfortably. "It was pleasant being driven home. Not to have to fight your way on the buses."

"What I mean to say is that we have acquired a maid—quite by accident."

"We?"

"Yes, we'll share her, of course. I told her to get dinner for two tonight in my apartment. She's fixing some chicken and dumplings. It'll be a relief not having to eat in restaurants for a while."

Janice's mouth began to water. "Chicken and dumplings! I didn't have any lunch, you know. Not even a chocolate bar."

"Neither did I. Her dumplings are delicious."

"Did you tell her you were married?"

"I did and she was pleased about it."

On the way home, Janice shares the umbrella of VAN EMERSON, who lives in the same apartment building. Van explains how he obtained his job by pretending he was married, and of the impending visit of his boss' wife, MRS. SAUNDERS, with the mythical MRS. EMERSON. Janice offers to pose as Mrs. Emerson during Mrs. Saunders' visit, and wins her completely. Howard and Janice meet for their weekly luncheon date and he passes on to Janice Betty's invitation to tea and COOK FIFTEEN CENTS. BETTY WALLACE, Janice's new maid, is an engaged card bidding Mr. and Mrs. Van Emerson to a reception at the home of the owner of Van's company, PAUL CAREW. There MRS. HARRIETT SUTCLIFF from Janice's home town recognizes her and promises to call Janice's mother and tell her what a fine husband Janice has, to the latter's dismay. The telephone rings when Janice arrives home, and because her mother is upset, because Mrs. SUTCLIFF's news, Janice tells her mother she is married, and promises that Van and she will visit home soon. Van suggests they be married and the ceremony is performed secretly. Janice tells PAT OTIS, her co-worker at the store, that Van and she will continue to have separate apartments.

BLOSSOM, her face like a shining black flower, opened the door for them when they came down the hall. She was big and yet her movements were quiet and swift. She beamed at Janice and at Van as they came in. She continued to beam as they sat down to the table she had set in the dinette, and ate with relish the dinner she had cooked for them. There was no clatter in the kitchen which was so close. Van had three helpings of her dumplings and Janice, two. She thought she had never tasted anything better.

"Mr. Emerson, he always likes my lemon chiffon pie, so I made some. You like lemon chiffon pie, Miss Emerson?" Blossom asked when she brought in the pie and put it on the table.

Janice said she did like chiffon lemon pie, and a little twinge came over her as she said it. Blossom was the first person to call her Mrs. Emerson. The name sounded strange, so different from plain short Miss Garth. Yet she was Mrs. Emerson. She had taken that name this afternoon in Hamilton Roe's office.

The coffee Blossom brought into the living room and set on the cocktail table. Janice curled up on the couch to drink her cup.

"Do you mean to say this jewel is ours?" She had finished one cup and was pouring another from the china pot which was the only pot the Bradley tenants were entitled to. She thought of the clear amber fluid drained into the cup that if she and Van were to have coffee in the living room they at least should have a decent pot and some thin nice cups. Perhaps one of the silver pots at home. Her mother would send her one. The one she liked, the small one with the stained old ivory handle.

"She is," he held out his cup for more, too. "Nice, isn't it? I'd forgotten what a good cook she is. Funny how you can forget something in such a little time. She wanted to know about breakfast. What you liked. She knows what I like."

"She isn't going to come to cook breakfast for us, too?"

"That's what she did for me in Carlton. Breakfast and dinner. I had my lunch at the Commons. Fifty dollars a month. Clean, too. And for that. She'll clean both our apartments here. I have breakfast at eight, and I'm at the lab at nine—but you can have it anytime you like. She'll be here all day—suits me. I like orange juice and butter toast and coffee, two cups. I'll pick up some homemade jams and jellies at the store for the breakfast."

Van relayed the menu to Blossom when she came to take the tray away.

"And hot breads, once in a while, Miss Emerson? Corn bread and hot biscuits with honey? And maybe when the blueberries come in, blueberry muffins. I can make good ones. Mr. Emerson will tell you I can. He likes my blueberry muffins."

Janice said she would like hot breads once in a while. She felt so lazily comfortable. Van was lighting a pipe, pressing in the tobacco firmly.

Blossom was washing the dishes in the kitchen almost noiselessly. Now the pipe was drawing nicely. Van was leaning back in his arm chair, his feet propped up on an ottoman. Soon Blossom appeared at the door, hatted and coated, and told them a pleasant good night. The door closed after her softly.

THE girl stretched out her arms and sighed deeply. "It's heavenly, Van. Honest it is. I feel so peaceful, so content. So much better than dashing into a restaurant looking at a menu. I'm tired of menus. I've been looking at them so long. I have a feeling our marriage is going to be domestic after all. Breakfast, I don't have to get myself, scrambling around in my kimono trying to boil my coffee and take my bath at the same time, and then find some time to squeeze a couple of oranges for my grape juice, and keep my toast from burning. The Bradley tenants aren't so good. Dinner I don't have to get myself, it's luxury!"

SLOWER THAN SLOW

By Angelo Patri

BEN DAVID is in kindergarten. The teacher looks at him and her brow wrinkles with worry. Why is Ben David so slow?

"Hurry, Ben David, The class is waiting."

Forty-nine expectant faces turn toward Ben David. The chairs are in place in the circle, all but his. He is about ready to lift his chair to carry it to the circle now, when everybody else is seated and waiting. It is so always. When the circle breaks into groups, Ben David will still be sitting on his little chair, slowly preparing to gather himself together to prepare to move to the table. The children will have finished their business there before he has begun.

"Yes, I know," said his mother. "He is always like that. I can't make him hurry. I have to dress him or he never would get dressed. I have to get him up an hour ahead of time so as to get him ready. I have to push every spoonful of food down his throat or he would never get a meal."

"But if he does not wake up he is not going to be able to get along in the grades. I don't dare promote him as he is. What are we to do?"

"I don't know. I thought he would get over it in school, but he hasn't, has he?"

"Not one bit faster today than the day he came. Look at him now. Every child has his hat and coat and gloves, ready for the street, but Ben David. He is thinking about starting. Slower than slow, is Ben David."

Send him to the children's specialist. When a child is as slow as that he is wanting in some vital essential in health. Only the experienced physician, one who has given a lifetime of study to the ills of children, can help him. If he is given help at the beginning of his school career there is more chance of doing something for him. If he is allowed to stay in the same class term after term he will not be able to overcome the handicap of retardation that is his.

Some children move more slowly than others as a matter of temperament. They move with deliberation and purpose and arrive at their destination in good time. All such children need is a reminder and a little training in clock-work. They will have no real trouble beyond a slight inconvenience. But these slower than slow, these children who are like slow movies of other children in action, need medical care, the best obtainable, without delay.

What makes them so slow? Only the skilled physician will be able to answer that question. All we who look on can say is that there is something wrong with the physical child. Something that is essential to normal action is lacking. Sometimes this can be remedied, and sometimes it cannot. The only chance the child has lies in speedy attention from the child specialist.

Punishment is worse than useless for such children. It is cruel because the child would be different if he could. He is as fast for himself as another child is fast for himself, and does not understand why people find so much fault with him. He is doing the best he can. Scolding, ridicule, deprivation of privileges, disgrace, only make a bad matter worse. Call in the specialist without delay and he may be able to help this afflicted child.

MR. FRISBY'S WEEKLY CHAT.

Good morning, everybody! I have reluctantly agreed to rip the mask off of world affairs in a once-a-week chat, sponsored by the Throw-Away-Your-Truss Health Institute, which this week offers you a free examination, half a dozen hand-tinted X-rays, in natural colors, and a Dream Book for not five dollars, not ten, but for one buck. Go to your nearest Throw-Away-Your-Truss office and tell them you want the dirt cheap bargain examination plus premiums de luxe as offered by Commander Frisby in his Mask Tipping program, which comes to you once a week in this column. The correct time is exactly six fifty-five a. m.—time to throw away your truss. Now let's glance over the papers.

A little item appears before my eyes about that spy fella, who got $40 for spying around the new mask. I get the idea I condone spying—I wouldn't tolerate it in my own family, although my wife's brother, who sleeps all day and eats like a horse, and helps himself to other people's ties and shirts—but I have time to fly into a rage about that now.

What I want to say is that I got a scheme for the Frisby Free Corps. I wouldn't want to breathe it to a soul but I got an idea that it would be a great joke on der Germans if we would all write to Mr. Hitler's paper and offer to get secrets from Congressman Frisby for $40 each. Then, after getting der $40 each, we would report back and say Congressman Frisby was incorruptible and furthermore did not have any battleship plans for sale, and that he warned the Master Spies of all dictatorship not to rattle sabers in his hemisphere or he would appeal to the people over the heads of the rulers. That is all I have to say about espionage for the time being, except that 40 dollars is 40 dollars. That is all, friends. See you next week—and until then wigwags and I do mean wigwags.
